Nehru Rejects Mediation

CP from AP-Reuters
NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru asked the United States for arms aid today in India's struggle with Communist China in which the total of Indian dead and missing is officially set at 2,000 to 2,500 so far.

An Indian government spokesman said the Chinese are believed to have suffered much heavier casualties in driving into northeastern and northwestern India.

The spokesman reported the loss of Demchok in southern Ladakh where the Chinese had attacked last Saturday.

Nehru asked U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith for the weapons. A U.S. embassy spokesman said Galbraith indicated they are coming.

Despite setbacks India definitely refused to accept offers of mediation of the undeclared war with China.

An external affairs ministry spokesman said "no self-respecting country, and certainly not India with her love of freedom, can submit to Chinese aggression whatever may be the consequences nor can India allow China's occupation of Indian territory to be used as a bargaining counter for dictating to India a settlement of differences regarding the boundary on China."

The spokesman reiterated that the Chinese must withdraw "at least to where they were prior to Sept. 8 when the intrusion into northeast began."

Meanwhile, Indian Army Chief-of-Staff Gen. P. N. Thapar announced today that invading Communist Chinese forces are "being held on all fronts." The announcement was contained in a special order of the day.

A military spokesman said there was only a sporadic exchange of fire in the northeast but Demchok and nearby Jara Pak were abandoned in Ladakh.

RECEIVE BRITISH ARMS

The appeal to the United States for weapons followed receipt here of two plane loads of British arms and ammunition. Nehru sought help as a major battle loomed for a vital 2½-mile Himalayan pass on the route to India's densely populated Assam Plains.

The Indian army was rushing reinforcements to the Se Pass to try to stem the advance of at least one 10,000-man Communist Chinese division striking forward from the key northeast border town of Towang which fell last week.

U.S. infantry weapons for the Indian defenders in the Himalayas may begin arriving by air by the end of this week, it was understood.

The terms on which the weapons will be supplied were left open, a U.S. embassy spokesman said. In the past India has insisted on paying for weapons but now there is no cash and a desperate need for arms.

A small shipment of British weapons already has arrived and France and Canada also

Canada Moves To Aid India

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada is taking "immediate steps" to provide India with military equipment for its frontier war against Communist China, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced today.

He told the House of Commons the military aid would include Caribou transport aircraft, and further details would be released within 48 hours.

The prime minister said the assistance was provided in response to a request by the Indian government last week.

Diefenbaker said Canada was "deeply disturbed" over the Chinese military action, and would help India "to the fullest in acquiring those items she needs to equip herself at this hour."

Opposition leader Lester B. Pearson added full support to the government in its efforts to meet "the unprovoked attack by a country to which India has been uniformly friendly."

The national referendum Sunday brought 12,800,000 yes votes and 7,900,000 no votes—a 61.76 per cent affirmative ballot.

However, almost a quarter of the eligible voters stayed away from the polls.

By de Gaulle's own calculations, a figure above 60 per cent meant a "success," 65 per cent a "triumph." He had threatened to retire if the majority had been "mediocre or problematical."

The referendum was officially to give the voters a chance to decide on de Gaulle's proposal that future presidents be elected by popular vote, instead of by an electoral college.

But faced with the opposition of almost every political party in France—partly because the referendum meant changing the constitution without the approval of the National Assembly—de Gaulle also made the vote a test of his prestige with the French people.

With the referendum over, a new political campaign began for the election next month of a new National Assembly.

De Gaulle dissolved the assembly earlier this month when it brought down Premier Georges Pompidou's government in a vote of confidence over the referendum proposal.

The fight is expected to be bitter since many politicians urged a no vote in the referendum and must face constituencies which voted solidly for de Gaulle.

UN Acts Fast on Cuba Deal As K Pledges Withdrawal

Kennedy Names Cuba Team

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy set up a special three-man committee today to handle negotiations looking toward an end to the Cuban crisis following Soviet Premier Khrushchev's agreement to pull missile bases out of Cuba.

Kennedy designated as chairman of the group John J. McCloy, whom he previously had appointed special assistant to United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson during the period of the Cuban emergency.

The other members are State Undersecretary George W. Ball and Deputy Defence Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatrick.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, described the group as "a co-ordinating committee to give full time and attention to the matters involved in the conclusion of the Cuban crisis."

Salinger said the group would report directly to the president but act under the supervision of State Secretary Rusk, Defence Secretary McNamara, and Stevenson.

The press secretary said the group would be concerned with implementing the letters of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev.

SENT EMISSARY

Khrushchev has dispatched Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov to the United Nations in New York to work with Acting Secretary-General U Thant in dealing with the many details involved in a settlement.

Salinger said he had no information as to whether McCloy, Ball and Gilpatrick would accompany U Thant to Havana Tuesday to meet with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and devise methods of confirming that the Russians' offensive weapons are removed.

Washington policymakers held hope that a breakthrough has

WIRE BRIEFS

Arms Talks Asked

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker today proposed that the Geneva disarmament conference be resumed with the least possible delay to take advantage of the momentum generated by weekend events in the Cuban situation.

Victim Identified

PORT ALBERT (CP)—A man killed in a traffic accident near here on the weekend was identified as Billy Barnes of Newcastle County, England. (See story, Page 15).

Search Continues

OTTAWA (CP)—A warrant for the arrest of Lieut. Oliver J. Grenon, who disappeared from the Canadian destroyer Kootenay six months ago, has been delivered to military and civilian authorities throughout Europe, a naval headquarters spokesman said today.

Oxygen Line Breaks

ALTUS, Okla. (AP)—U.S. Air Force technicians started pumping liquid oxygen from an Atlas missile today after a broken fuel line threatened a fire. The mishap was reported to have brought an order for an evacuation of one mile around the launching site.

Yemen Chief Loses Head In Skirmish

ADEN (Reuters)—The head of a tribal chieftain from northern Yemen has been displayed outside the main gate of San'a, the Yemen capital's radio said today.

The chieftain was an important member of the Jahn tribe, which has been fighting against the new republican regime in the northeast part of this Red Sea kingdom.

He was reported to have been killed in a skirmish with republican troops in the Kholan region between San'a and the British-protected state of Beihan.

Venezuela Oil Fields Sabotaged

CARACAS (AP)—The Maracaibo oil fields were made a military zone today as hundreds of American and Venezuelan technicians worked to repair damage caused by saboteurs which knocked out a sixth of Venezuela's oil production.

The interior ministry said two captured saboteurs were Venezuelan Communists apparently acting on orders from Cuba.

U.S. diplomats spread word among Latin American governments to be wary of an expected continent-wide sabotage campaign by followers of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Some authoritative sources in Washington said Cuban Premier Fidel Castro gave the signal for general terrorist action in Latin America with the American-operated oil fields in Venezuela a prime target.

Saboteurs dynamited four power stations of the Creole Petroleum Corporation Sunday at Lake Maracaibo, which holds beneath its waters one of the world's richest oil stores.

A few hours earlier President Romulo Betancourt ordered mobilization of the armed forces to counter what he called the threat to Venezuela of "the reservoir of Soviet nuclear rockets in Cuba."

Betancourt's government blamed the oil field bombing on

EXPERT ANALYZES MANAGEMENT'S FLAWS, VIRTUES

How to Put Boss Foot Forward

TORONTO (CP)—About 300 executives shuffled uneasily as Dr. Margaret Nix, associate professor at McGill University's department of health and social medicine, gave them an expert's insight into the characters of most "bosses."

Addressing the 18th annual conference of the Industrial Management Clubs of Canada, Dr. Nix puts employers into four categories:

The tyrannical boss: He tops the "hate" list, his bite is worse than his bark, he is indirectly responsible for child-beating, by resentful fathers and his staff is renowned for its buck-passing, bootlicking and boss-fawning.

The benevolent dictator: He's a "one big happy family" type who trades his benevolence for employee loyalty, but his employees soon see through him. Seldom harsh, his paternal heart is centred on himself and expressed by "you've pleased me" or "I am displeased."

The "laissez-faire" boss: He is afraid of his staff, snarls at them to leave him alone because he's afraid they'll realize how inefficient he is and delegates all responsibility to hirelings. Staff morale and productivity is usually at an all-time low.

The democratic type: Most favored, he becomes a "part of the staff," translates top-level policy to his subordinates and helps them make their own decisions about their work. He knows his employees better than themselves and judges them by their capabilities, not their faults.

'NO DEALS' U.S. Won't Quit Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—A state department spokesman, rebutting a Cuban demand for U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo, said today that United States treaty rights to the big naval base are clear, and "our position there remains unchanged."

Privately, officials said there are "no deals" involved in any way in the U.S.-Soviet agreement for withdrawal of Russian nuclear missiles from Soviet bases in Cuba.

The Guantanamo issue was raised by Premier Fidel Castro Sunday when he made a series of demands on the U.S., beginning with withdrawal from the big naval base.

They were:

1. Lifting the U.S. economic boycott of Cuba.
2. An end to all "subversive activities, organization of mercenary invaders and infiltration of spies and saboteurs" from U.S. territory.
3. Ending of "pirate attacks" from U.S. and Puerto Rican bases.
4. No more violations of Cuban waters and air space by U.S. planes and ships.
5. Withdrawal from the Guantanamo base.

Castro said Kennedy's "guarantees against an aggression on Cuba" will not exist unless, in addition to the elimination of the naval blockade, (these) measures are adopted.

By a treaty signed early this century, the United States is entitled to stay in Guantanamo as long as it desires on payment of a yearly rental fee of $2,000.

Air Cameras Stand Watch

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. reconnaissance planes focused their cameras on Cuba today in search of evidence that the Russians are starting to dismantle their missile bases there.

The U.S. blockade fleet remained on guard in the Atlantic. But no Russian ships were reported within two or three days steaming time of the U.S. "quarantine" line thrown up nearly a week ago.

Informed officials said they don't expect to see any substantial reduction in land, sea and air preparations at least until the United States is convinced the missile threat from Cuba is removed.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the UN deserves special praise for its labors.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Diefenbaker confessed to 200 persons at a church cornerstone-laying ceremony that he had some difficulty keeping abreast of the Cuban developments.

A Diefenbaker statement later said there is an "early prospect that the threat to the Western Hemisphere from long-range Soviet missiles in Cuba will be removed."

This had been brought about by "high degree of unity, understanding and co-operation among the Western Allies." In this the Canadian government has played its full part.

'Disaster Too Close' —John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Reaction here to the thaw in the Cuban crisis struck the same note exhibited in other world capitals: relief mingled with caution from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down.

"Mankind will breathe more hopefully," he said in a statement Sunday. "The introduction of missiles into the Western Hemisphere has brought the world too close to disaster for anyone to indulge either self-congratulations or complacency at this time."

"Keep our relief, as we should keep our fears, in perspective," said Liberal Leader Pearson.

"Vistas for new opportunities for negotiation spring from this first step in the right direction," said House Leader H. W. Herdridge of the New Democratic Party.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson was at his home in Red Deer, Alta.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Diefenbaker confessed to 200 persons at a church cornerstone-laying ceremony that he had some difficulty keeping abreast of the Cuban developments.

Thant Moves In Tuesday

By JOSEPH MacSWEENEY

UNITED NATIONS (CP) Acting Secretary-General U Thant, the man in the middle in the Cuban crisis, today prepared for a peace-keeping mission to Havana with the apparent blessings of Moscow and Washington.

Thant Sunday accepted an invitation from Premier Fidel Castro to visit Cuba after Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised President Kennedy of the United States he would remove Russian bases from the Caribbean island under United Nations verification.

A UN spokesman said Thant will leave Tuesday.

Khrushchev made his promise on the basis of a Kennedy offer of a guarantee against an invasion of Cuba and an end to the United States arms blockade against Cuba if the Soviet Union pulled back its offensive weapons.

The Khrushchev-Kennedy exchange of letters resulted in a distinct—if still uneasy—lessening of tensions at UN headquarters where chilling talk of thermonuclear war kept diplomats jittery most of last week.

But diplomats stressed the situation still is delicate and that words in big-power diplomacy are not always what they seem, particularly when security and prestige are deeply involved.

GREEN ARRIVES

"It's been an exceedingly serious situation and can't be worked out in an hour or two," was the way it was put by External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada, who arrived Sunday night from Ottawa for a two-day stay at the UN.

"There is no way we can tell for sure," he added. "But if the Soviet proposal is carried out, if they start work on removing the Cuban bases, and start taking their missiles back to Russia, there seems to be a reasonable chance of getting a solution."

"The letters that have been exchanged indicate there is a fair chance."

TRIES TO ALLAY FEARS

Castro's initial reaction last week to the idea of UN inspectors being sent to Cuba was violently in the negative and his letter to Thant Saturday—extending the invitation for a visit—stressed the sanctity of Cuba's sovereignty.

Seeking to allay Castro's fears on the sovereignty issue, Thant said in his reply Sunday.

"It would be my hope that as

THIS DAY IN VICTORIA - 1862

Peter Lind and Bill Bonnett were arrested today for the alleged rape of the Indian wife of a Saanich settler. Both men are Saanich residents.

Several U.S. soldiers visited the city today. They belong to Company C, 9th Regiment of the U.S. Infantry, under the command of Capt. Bissell. The soldiers are stationed on the military outpost of San Juan Island.

The sailing vessel Adelaide Cooper arrived today, 27 days from San Francisco. Light headwinds prevented her earlier scheduled arrival. Eighty cattle were aboard.

An amateur dramatic association will be formed in Victoria, it was learned today.

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

What do Victorians think about them?

"I think they're cute," said a male observer, "but I wouldn't want my wife to know I'd said that."

"I think they're terrible," said Mrs. Ronald Holtum, 1179 Hollis. "I believe all extremes are bad. I didn't like the long skirt that came in with the New Look about 12 years ago, and I don't like skirts above the knee."

"Clothes should be in proportion to the person and most women look better in a skirt one inch below the knee."

Said 19-year-old Dolly Ferguson, 2961 Quadra:

"I think short skirts suit most young women, but they don't look well on older people. In any case, I like the fashions—change is good for all of us."

Blaming the government is a favorite sport with most members of the public. But a Victoria woman went the limit the other day when she blamed Premier Bennett's government for "all the tough characters we are getting on the Island nowadays."

Former Times reporter Mike Rose, writes from London that he has been spending the first four months over there "looking up friends and relatives" and adds:

"Dick Ellis and his tribe (the rugby team) arrived in an aura of enthusiasm, which was soon dissipated by the Western Counties' team under Richard Sharp. The experience should be good for our boys."

Few people at the UBC congregation which installed new president John B. Macdonald last Wednesday appreciated the strain under which Chancellor Phyllis Ross was functioning.

Her husband, the Hon. Frank Ross, was operated on at 11 a.m. the same day, but Mrs. Ross carried on with great grace and style. Her husband's condition in general hospital is reported as satisfactory.

Another ex-Times reporter, Peter Loudon, is now undergoing treatment in the Lions Gate Hospital, North Vancouver. In a nearby bed is James John McKim, who taught for many years at Victoria High School before his retirement. Pete says Mr. McKim would welcome letters or postcards from the many who studied under him. He suffered a stroke while visiting North Vancouver about two months ago.

Victorians lined up outside the Dominion Hotel banquet room Sunday night to eat for the United Appeal.

Receipts totalling $341.38 from dinners served to 151 guests were turned over to the fund drive. Hotel manager Norman Loomer said the company will make up the difference to present a $500 cheque to United Appeal.

The project was so successful, Mr. Loomer said, "we will be all geared up in the future to lend our services for needy causes."

Convention manager Charlie Moore, just returned from California, where he drummed up business for the Empress Hotel, has good news for Victoria's tourist industry.

While not yet disclosing the number of conventions expected to be held here next year, he indicated there would be many.

What's more, he said prospects for 1964-65 were equally bright.

Mr. Moore is a bit of a magician when it comes to convention business. In past years he has done more than any individual to induce out-of-town organizations to hold their annual meetings in Victoria.

Seven dollars in pennies wrapped in bridge score cards were delivered anonymously to Victoria's United Appeal fund this weekend.

"We are grateful for all contributions in whatever form they reach us," a UA spokesman said.

Victoria's Trousseau Alley could be made much more. Old World than it is, says Robert Ludwig, visiting public relations man from Vancouver.

"I would have seats for the old people, open-air coffee tables outside the restaurants and a regular series of weekly art exhibits," he said.

Police Check Out Wanted Man Tips

Hectic activity by RCMP followed circulation during the weekend of a drawing and description of a man wanted in connection with the Nanaimo lovers' lane slaying.

Dozens of citizens telephoned RCMP detachments throughout British Columbia to point out someone they thought is the wanted man.

All the reports are being investigated. But so far they have not turned up "anything concrete," according to a spokesman for the RCMP.

The man being sought could either be the killer or a prime witness in the shooting of Diane Phipps and Leslie Dixon. Dixon's body was found in his car on a Nanaimo lovers' lane, and the body of his girl friend was discovered six miles away.

The bodies of the 19-year-old sweethearts were found Oct. 17. The man being hunted is known to have been in the area at the time of the shooting.

He is between 20 and 30 years old, about six feet tall and has light brown hair. When last seen he wore a light tan windbreaker and matching trousers and was driving a late model black car.

DISABLED PENSIONS EXTENSION

Back-Bench Campaign Pays

OTTAWA (CP) — Quiet mis-both levels of government co-operation work by a government back-bencher has brought a promise that the next federal-provincial welfare conference will take up possible extensions of disabled pensions to persons who don't qualify now.

The unqualified disabled have been a pet project of Heber Smith, 47-year-old Barrie, Ont., lawyer and Progressive Conservative MP for Simcoe North. He argues there are a great many persons receiving unemployment assistance — perhaps 50,000 to 100,000 — who are, in fact, unemployed because of disabilities not covered by regulations defining those who qualify for disability pensions.

He said today in an interview that Health Minister Monteith has promised the question will be taken up at the next federal-provincial welfare conference, since this is a field in which

Mr. Smith said that at a guess, between 50,000 and 100,000 persons now regarded as unemployed are really unemployed. Some may be accident prone, others may have physical or mental troubles that make it difficult to find a job or impossible to keep one.

The motion stands behind about 40 others on the order paper and Mr. Smith recognizes it has little chance of being debated this session. But, having received Mr. Monteith's promise, he placed it on the order paper just on the chance it may be reached.

been scored in the U.S.-Soviet confrontation that bordered on potential nuclear conflict.

Khrushchev's pledge was hailed in Western capitals as a stunning victory for the United States.

The only price Khrushchev asked was a guarantee, which Kennedy gave, that the United States would not invade Cuba.

The state department announced that while the "quarantine" against offensive weapons shipments to Cuba continues, it expects no interceptions by the U.S. blockaders.

Washington authorities said they did not know at the moment whether the building of Soviet missile sites in Cuba—reported proceeding at a rapid pace Saturday—had stopped.

Khrushchev agreed to pull out the missile bases in a letter to Kennedy. The Soviet leader said "the interests of peace" guided his decision.

Kennedy issued a statement calling Khrushchev's decision "an important and constructive contribution to peace."

Kennedy said Khrushchev had made possible "a step back from danger."

This historic exchange climaxed a week of nerve-jangling events. The first step was Kennedy's announcement last Monday night that he was ordering a "quarantine" of offensive arms shipments to Cuba. Ships reported to be carrying offensive weapons to Cuba turned around.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara announced that more than 14,000 air force reservists, mostly in units used to airlift troops for combat, would be called to active duty.

McNamara's announcement Saturday night followed a Pentagon report that an unarmed U.S. reconnaissance plane was missing as a result of Cuban anti-aircraft fire.

The tension-filled week was climaxed with Khrushchev's latest letter, meeting the basic U.S. demand for suggesting UN supervision. The Soviet leader also proposed discussions on arms reductions, including armaments of the rival North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw pact group, and talks on easing other cold war tensions.

SMASHING election victory was chalked up by Mayor Jean Drapeau in the most lop-sided win in Montreal history. He was as popular in the English-speaking areas as in the French-speaking sectors in piling up 130,556 votes to 13,629 for Senator Sarto Fournier, his closest opponent.

Veteran Newsman Dies in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP) — Veteran Canadian newspaper man Herbert C. Manning died Saturday from a heart attack in hospital here. He was 49.

Born in Winnipeg, Manning joined the sports department of the Winnipeg Tribune in the mid-thirties after attending University of Manitoba. He later became sports editor of the Tribune.

After the Second World War, Manning became city editor of the Tribune and later was news editor.

He left the Tribune in October, 1950, to become an assistant editor for Maclean's Magazine in Toronto.

Other news jobs followed in eastern Canada—editor of Mayfair magazine, assistant managing editor of the Toronto Star and news director of radio station CKGM in Montreal.

Manning moved to the Pacific coast in July and joined the staff of the Vancouver Sun. He wrote editorials for two months and then switched to the sports department where he had been writing a daily column.

Anxious World Breathes Easier

LONDON (Reuters)—An anxious world breathed easier today as the ominous threat of nuclear war gave way to the possibility of peaceful settlement of the Cuban crisis.

The British government welcomed the Soviet announcement that it is ready to dismantle its Cuban missile sites. Prime Minister Macmillan messaged Khrushchev that such a move would open the way to wider negotiations on a nuclear test ban and disarmament generally.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak said Khrushchev must be thanked and congratulated for his action.

Danish Foreign Minister Per Hækkerup expressed hope that the new Soviet-U.S. contact on Cuba might lead to "a final settlement in peace."

The British national press joined in almost unanimous praise for the courage of both President Kennedy, for his original blockade move, and Khrushchev, for his decision to dismantle the Cuban missile sites immediately.

LOSE LEADERSHIP?

The Liberal Manchester Guardian saw Khrushchev's decision as a means of buying time for talks on the whole question of disarmament.

But it added Khrushchev might be pushed out of the Soviet leadership. "If so, we shall probably not be any better off."

The Soviet Communist newspaper Pravda published President Kennedy's last two statements and Khrushchev's reply under heavy headlines — "the peace and security of the peoples must be ensured," "reason must triumph" and "Khrushchev approves the peace-loving proposals of the Soviet Union."

Pravda said there was universal support for "the wise policies" of the Soviet Union in the most complicated circumstances among workers throughout the Soviet Union.

'STRESSES UN-FUNCTION'

In Rome, the Independent Moderate-Il Messaggero said the conclusion of the crisis shows "the wise determination of the two sides and stresses the noble function of the United Nations."

British philosopher Bertrand Russell, who had exchanged telegrams calling for peace with both leaders, told Khrushchev "I have never known any statesman act with the magnanimity and greatness that you have shown over Cuba."

In West Germany, the Social Democratic Essen Neue Rheinzeitung said "winning a battle is not winning the war."

The independent Bonn General Anzeiger said "Khrushchev will try to make the most out of his peace gesture. In a dramatic hour he has presented himself to the world as a saviour of peace. He now hopes the world will concede to him that the Americans must pay for his peaceful behavior somewhere else, in Berlin for example."

RED CHINA QUIET ON CUBA

PEKING (Reuters)—The Communist party People's Daily today reported Russia's decision to dismantle its Cuban missile bases in a one-paragraph item in a bottom corner of the third page.

There was no comment in any Peking newspaper on the Soviet decision and the main story in all was on a rally Sunday protesting against the United States arms blockade against Cuba.

EVEN FOOTBALL in pigskin-crazy Baltimore took temporary back seat to international situation as Baltimore Sun published a rare extra edition Sunday. Football fan at Memorial Stadium, Bill Ivy, scans the four-page issue with banner headlines reporting Premier Khrushchev's apparent willingness to pull out of Cuba. It is the first extra published by the Sun since the declaration of war in 1939. (AP Wirephoto).

SEVEN FATEFUL DAYS OF CUBAN CRISIS

By The Canadian Press

This is the record of seven days that shook the world.

It began with President Kennedy's order clamping a "quarantine" on the shipment of Soviet missiles to Cuba, and reached a second climax when Premier Khrushchev announced his order to de-fang the weapons and ship them back to Russia.

Here is the chronology:

Monday — After 24 hours of feverish, and highly secret, activity in Washington, President Kennedy announced the "quarantine." He said Soviet missiles, aimed at the United States, were mounted on launchers in Cuba. Further shipments of offensive weapons, he said, would be intercepted and prevented from reaching the island.

Tuesday — U.S. warships moved into position around Cuba. U.S. forces around the world were placed on the alert. Air surveillance was stepped up over Cuba. Kennedy formally signed the blockade proclamation.

Wednesday — The Pentagon said 25 Communist-bloc ships were approaching Cuban waters. It ordered American warships to begin intercepting them at 10 a.m. Later, the Pentagon said some of the 25 appeared to have altered course to avoid interception. Khrushchev, in a letter to British philosopher Bertrand Russell, said he would not take any "rash action" in the Cuban crisis and suggested a summit meeting to avoid war. In Havana, Premier Castro ordered all Cuban forces and said anyone preparing to invade Cuba "had better come ready for combat."

Thursday — A Soviet oil tanker the Bucharest, was the first interception. The navy did not board her. She was allowed to proceed after it was ascertained that she was only carrying petroleum. Kennedy and Khrushchev both agreed to talks with U Thant, acting UN secretary-general, as a preliminary to negotiations on the crisis. The Pentagon said it appeared that 12 Soviet-bloc ships had turned away from the quarantine zone.

Friday — The White House said in a statement that work on the missile sites in Cuba was being pushed at a feverish pace. The activity, it said, "apparently is directed at achieving a full operational capacity as soon as possible." The navy halted, boarded and searched the freighter Maruca. She was permitted to proceed after it was ascertained that no offensive weapons were in her cargo. Khrushchev said he would send no more Soviet-bloc ships into the blockade area and Kennedy said the U.S. would try to avoid any direct confrontation at sea "in the next few days."

Saturday — Khrushchev offered to withdraw all "offensive" forces from Cuba if the U.S. would do the same with similar weapons in Turkey. The White House replied that "as an urgent preliminary to consideration of any proposals, work on the Cuban bases must stop, offensive weapons must be rendered inoperable, and further shipment of offensive weapons to Cuba must cease."

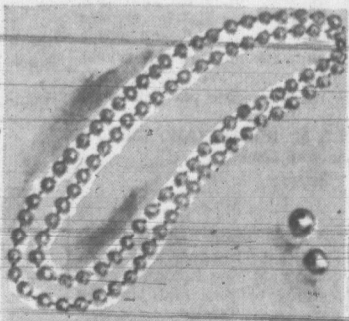

The White House disclosed that several "inconsistent and conflicting proposals" had been made by Moscow. Later, it was reported that Moscow had agreed to remove the bases from Cuba, under UN supervision. The United States, for its part, agreed to lift the quarantine and give assurances against an invasion of Cuba.

Sunday — At 9 a.m. EST Khrushchev announced that he had ordered Soviet rocket bases in Cuba dismantled and the missiles returned to the Soviet Union "in the interests of peace." President Kennedy welcomed this "statesmanlike decision." But the U.S. military mobilization went ahead rapidly, pending solid proof that Khrushchev means what he said. More than 14,000 air reservists — troop carrying units — were recalled to active duty.

BOOST FOR JFK

Democrats Get Lift From Crisis

By JACK BELL

Associated Press News Analyst

The prospect of the settlement of the Cuban crisis with Premier Khrushchev's decision to dismantle Soviet missile bases on the Caribbean island has given Democratic politicians a big lift in the U.S. elections that are only eight days away.

It promises to rocket President Kennedy's personality and rob the opposition Republicans of a main political platform to criticize the Kennedy administration — "softness toward Cuba."

If Kennedy wins the battle of nuclear terror with Khrushchev, politicians will be inclined to say that the president will be well on his way toward re-election in 1964.

Any resolution of the dangerous controversy based on a steadfast U.S. stand will also strengthen Kennedy's hand in the next major crisis likely to crowd the centre of the international stage—Berlin.

COULD ROCK BOAT

What happens in Berlin, of course, could either upset or spur an administration political surge generated by the Cuban outcome.

For Kennedy and the Democratic candidates he supports, recent developments seem likely to turn the Cuban issue into an asset rather than a liability in the final days of the campaign.

As far as Kennedy is concerned it could erase, at least in part, charges that by what his critics call timidity and indecisiveness the president doomed to failure the 1961 invasion of Cuba.

DIRECT VATICAN COUNCIL

Pope Strengthens Boards

VATICAN CITY (Reuters)—Pope John today departed from regulations and nominated nine instead of eight members of each of the 10 commissions which will help direct the Vatican ecumenical council.

A council spokesman said the regulations were changed to bring the membership of each commission to 25 for voting purposes. The 2,500 Roman Catholic prelates attending the council earlier this month elected 16 members of each commission.

Observers here noted that the papal appointments included a relatively high percentage of Italians, higher than the lists elected by the bishops.

On the commission for the discipline of the sacraments, the Pope appointed five Italian prelates and four Italians were named to the commission for the laity and press.

Bishop Georges Pelletier of Trois-Rivières, Que. was appointed to the important theology commission.

Rev. Leo Deschatelets, Superior general of the Oblate Fathers and a native of Montreal, was named to the commission on missions.

Meanwhile, the council continued to discuss proposals to change public forms of worship, with the prelates arguing for and against the adaptation of the liturgy to modern times.

A council spokesman said the debate had revealed unanimity on the nature and ultimate goal of the liturgy, but there were differences of opinion on the methods of adapting the liturgy to changing conditions and the customs and traditions of different nations.

Some bishops insisted the liturgy should be developed to pass over certain aspects which had become distant in time and difficult to understand.

A spokesman said the slowness of the debate arose from the freedom of expression given the prelates and the depth of study necessary.

The Second Crisis

RUSSIA'S RETREAT FROM Cuba must be reckoned one of the most decisive events in all human history since it probably prevented humanity's destruction by nuclear war, for the time being anyway. More than that, it seemed to prove, on the final brink, Russia's unwillingness to precipitate war. Unlike Hitler, Mr. Khrushchev is sane.

But as the world breathes freely again after its ordeal of six days, it must understand that while one crisis has apparently ended another has certainly begun. The centre of the storm has moved from the Caribbean to Asia. Events in both places, we may be sure, are tightly bound together.

Russia liquidates an unprofitable adventure in Cuba when it realizes, for the first time, that the United States will fight. After this terrifying confrontation, however, what part will Russia play in the latest adventure of its Chinese ally? Where does Mr. Khrushchev really stand in the brutal, unprovoked attack on India?

The world is filled with rumors, interpretations and expertise of all sorts but it is unlikely that anyone outside the Kremlin knows whether Russia intends to back China with more than Communist slogans, if the Kremlin knows itself.

It is for the United Nations to deal with the known facts and they are plain enough.

A member of the United Nations, generally peaceful, neutral and militarily weak, is invaded by a non-member and appeals for help to its friends in both the uncommitted nations and in the West.

To Mr. Nehru's bitter disappointment, the neutrals answer with silence. All his dreams—of a neutral bloc standing solidly together between the two power giants—explode overnight. The whole doctrine of neutrality in the civil war of our time is dead, killed by an aggressive Communism.

Awakening at last to the facts of power, Mr. Nehru depends for India's safety, perhaps its survival, on nations like the United States and Britain which he has always suspected of imperialism.

Things are moving so fast in India today that there is no time to speculate on Mr. Nehru's ironic tragedy. What matters is the protection of his people who deserve the aid of the United Nations but, in practical terms of power, are absolutely dependent upon the aid of their Western friends. During the next few days or hours, therefore, we shall see whether the United Nations is prepared to take a clear stand against Chinese aggression and how much power the West is prepared to invest in India.

At the same time we should see whether Russia will invest real power there on the side of China. If it does India may soon present us with a new crisis just as deadly as the recent crisis of Cuba. For by every measurement except geography the Chinese threat is as serious to the West as the threat of a nuclear Cuba. It raises the old, fundamental question: Shall aggression go unrestricted in one place and then, inevitably expand into others?

By the weirdest sort of paradox, perhaps beyond his control, Mr. Khrushchev finds his Chinese ally committing undeniable aggression at the very moment when he is seeking, or says he is seeking, a broad accommodation with the West. In payment for his humiliating surrender in Cuba he expects the United States to liquidate its increasingly obsolete missile bases in Turkey. President Kennedy, while refusing to negotiate at all until Cuba is disarmed, nevertheless encourages the hope of a much wider settlement.

But just as these hopes appear after the Cuban nightmare China threatens them by the backdoor of the Himalayan passes and seems determined, though it is almost incredible, to pour into the Indian plains, thus upsetting again the whole fragile power balance of the world.

That the West will try to preserve the balance was clear from today's indication that American and British arms will be rushed to India. Whether Russia will reply with military support to China is not known at this writing.

Everything must depend on Russia's double assessment of its ally and of the West. Is the ally an asset after all for a dangerous liability already discrediting Communism everywhere and likely to threaten world peace? Will the West fight, if necessary, to save India?

These are the questions that Mr. Khrushchev must now answer even as he deserts his other ally in Cuba and seeks some kind of rapprochement with the United States. Everything will turn on his answer, not in words but in the actual deployment of Russian military power. And that may depend upon Mr. Khrushchev's own mysterious position of political power in the Kremlin where, undoubtedly, an agonizing reappraisal of his Cuban defeat is under way.

Meanwhile the West has won a great victory through a fearless young man who is now established as its undoubted leader. Unflinching in the face of the ultimate horror, President Kennedy has defied and beaten back from the western hemisphere the naked force of the Communist conspiracy.

Whatever the future holds for his career, free men everywhere can never hope to repay the debt to him. In a supreme crisis, different not only in size but in kind from any in mankind's past, he has proved himself the greatest leader of our times. As another crisis emerges in Asia it is reassuring to know that such a man is leading and has the undoubted confidence of the entire free world.

Delivering the Message

WITH THE RESIDENTIAL canvass still under way, the United Appeal campaign has passed the 70 per cent mark. But more than $100,000 must still be collected if the objective is to be reached.

While many donations to the fund are generous, many, it must be confessed, are merely token gifts. While in no sense to be spurned—for every dollar counts—they are of a size that is not realistic in relation to the need for money or the ability of the donor to give.

This seems to be a question of education. Somehow, a full appreciation of the need is not being conveyed to many of the residents of Greater Victoria. Once that message could be got across, there would be no difficulty in achieving an objective which actually is of quite modest dimensions compared with those of many other communities.

Those who have benefited from the various United Appeal agencies need no convincing; those who, as laymen, have anything to do with their operations are likewise willing contributors. And there are very many who, although without direct contact with the work, are community-minded enough to recognize their value.

How to reach the others: that is the problem. What is the answer?

Strike Off, Problem Remains

ANOTHER ELEVENTH HOUR settlement has forestalled a railway strike in Canada but lack of information on detailed terms leaves important questions unanswered.

The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen has accepted the 8 per cent wage increase (over two years) the Canadian Pacific had offered previously, and each side has won certain concessions on disputed working conditions. Notably, according to press reports, the company has been sustained in its plea for removal of certain obsolete rules.

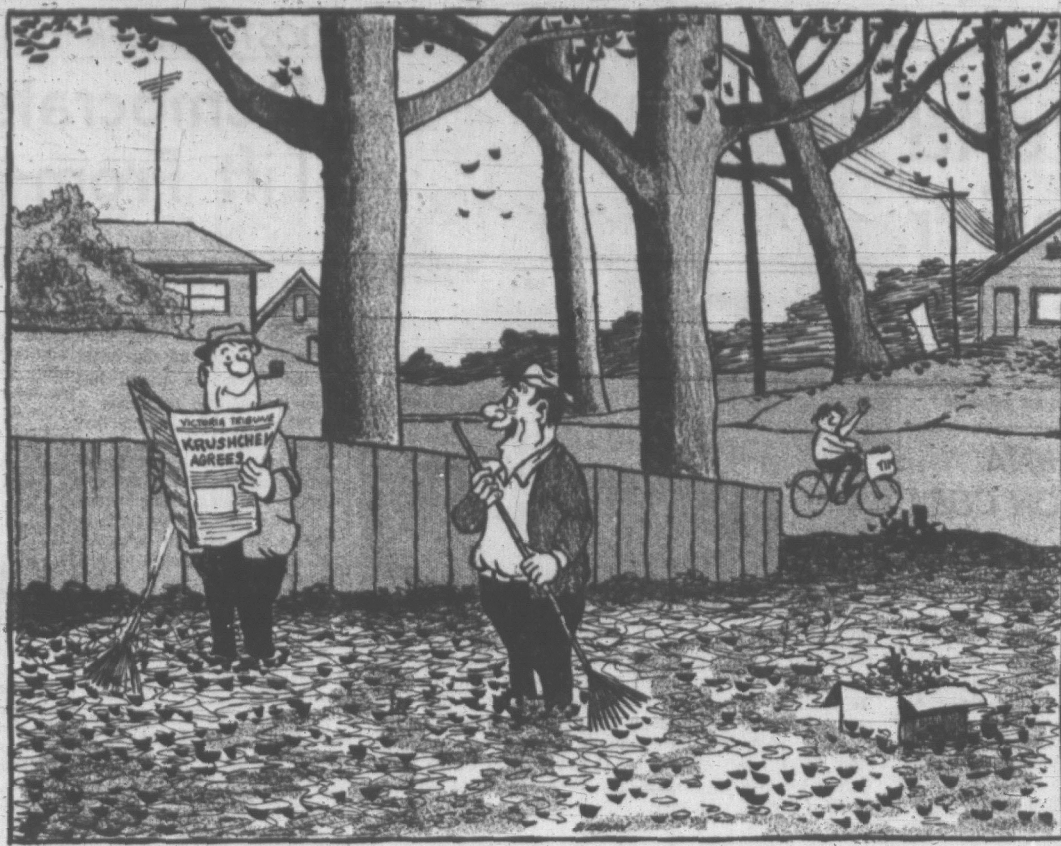

The settlement does not appear, however, to have gained much ground along lines set out by the MacPherson commission for a more lasting cure of the country's railroad ills which arise from the continuation of lines which do not and cannot pay for themselves.

Neither does the announcement indicate who meets the increased costs of a higher wage bill. Has Mr. Diefenbaker agreed to buy off the strike again, as he has done formerly with increased subsidies? Do the changes in working rules effect such economies that the higher costs can be met from savings to the company?

The answers to such questions must await a far more detailed account of the settlement than that already given.

In the meantime, Canadians appreciate the fact that a huge transportation network will not be tied up at this time of intense crisis in world and national affairs. They cannot, however, ignore the persistent question: What has it cost and who is to pay?

"This is one year I'm happy to be still doing this..."

ON COMMON GROUND

By B. A. TOBIN

Submissions Are Invited From . . .

LEGAL NOTICE: In anticipation of forthcoming hearings, submissions are invited from Organizations, Associations and individuals wishing to provide information relating to the incidence and effects of taxation imposed by the Parliament of Canada, including any changes. . . .

"Yes, Mr. Doakes. I understand you have a statement to make to the Commission regarding taxes."

"That is right."

"Will you make it now, please?"

"I don't like them."

"I beg your pardon?"

"I don't like them."

"You don't like taxes?"

"Yes."

"You mean you do like them?"

"No, I mean yes I don't like them."

"I see. Well, we shall take note of your submission, Mr. Doakes. Have you anything to add?"

"Yes. The main reason I don't like taxes is I can't afford them."

"Well, after all, Mr. Doakes, they aren't like something you buy. It isn't a matter of affording them."

"Yes it is. I can't afford taxes, and I don't buy the idea of them."

"Please explain."

"Well, it's the sneakiness of it all. The government urges everybody to work so as to have a high national productivity. The more you work the more you earn. The more you earn the more you have to pay in taxes. Not only that, but the less the other fellow works, the more you have to pay in taxes. But the government never explains that. It lets you go on thinking your money is yours when actually it isn't. It's sneaky."

"But you will appreciate, Mr. Doakes, that a country must have funds on which to operate. Those funds must come from taxes."

"I don't mind that so much. But take the government loans. They urge you to buy a $100 bond. The government gives you $5 a year interest. Then the government takes back $2 or more in taxes. And at the end of the year inflation has shrunk your $100 another couple of dollars so that you really get nothing from your investment. But the government never mentions that either."

"Yes, but you see, Mr. Doakes, the government has to have the money from bond issues to pay back the money it borrowed on previous bond issues as well as to pay for new things too. And if you had lent it money on the earlier issue you would be getting that money back from the proceeds of the later issue, which, of course, is your own money, in a sense. In other words, you'd be paying yourself back, and . . . er, wait a minute now . . . The money you lent the second time would be given back to you as the return of the money you gave them the first time, but of course you would have received interest on this, paid out of the money you pay in in taxes and . . . no, that can't be right. Wait. The money from your second loan pays back the debt of the first loan . . . but in that case you'd be paying yourself back in dollars worth less than the dollars you'd lent, PLUS all the taxes you'd paid to pay for interest and the things the loans hadn't been enough to cover, so that . . . Why, you'd be cheating yourself in that case, wouldn't you, Mr. Doakes? That can't be right. Look at it this way . . .

"I can see you're getting the idea now. That's what I mean when I say I don't like taxes."

"You want to know something, Mr. Doakes? I don't like 'em either."

Potentially Good Hands

Last week it was my pleasant duty as chairman of the Vancouver Island Branch of the Royal Commonwealth Society to accompany and introduce His Excellency the Australian High Commissioner, Mr. D. O. Hay, DSO, MBE, to gatherings of students and staff at the Oak Bay, Victoria and Esquimalt High Schools and at Norfolk House School.

The interest shown in Mr. Hay's address on Australia and the Commonwealth was most gratifying to him and he told me that he was impressed by the obvious calibre of the students to whom he spoke. It is my observation that if these young people and their teachers are typical of those at other schools across Canada, the future of this country is going to be in good hands.

J. A. A. GEORGE.

Who Sits in Judgment?

Correct me if I am wrong, but Mr. L. J. Pepper, in all his writings, sits in self-righteous judgment, on his Creator, and on his fellow men, as though he were a righteous man, and his judgments just. "God is the Judge," and the God of our Scriptures is the Father of that Galilean, the son of man, the one mediator between God and man in all the world.

As Shakespeare, no preacher, had it: "In the course of justice, none of us should see salvation."

We are all fallible mortals, without exception, and even the heads of the Communist hierarchies are subject to the grace of God and His judgment.

S. A. WHITFIELD.

What Is Nature?

I am sure many of your readers read Mr. L. J. Pepper's letters which are always full of interest even if some people find them a trifle astrident.

He teaches a philosophy which is far too stern and austere to appeal to the great majority of your readers. For they ask for comforting and comfortable answers to extremely difficult questions.

Mr. Pepper discards the idea of deity entirely and forthrightly. Yet Mr. Pepper talks of nature doing this or that or being responsible for something or other. Lots of other people, of course, do this same thing, including myself.

But if nature is not a part or attribute of God, what is it? I am convinced that we experience this Universe only by means of our five weak and fallible senses: sight, hearing, touch, smell and taste. I do not believe in intuition or what our Quaker friends call "the inner light." If my logic is good then, nature is simply the way things seem to happen.

Nature does not watch her children grow-up and reward them. What does obtain, it seems to me, is a mysterious force called life which is involved in a bitter constant struggle to express itself and expand everywhere possible, crowding out possible competitors without the least mercy. Examine any wild field or forest, think of the thousands of seeds, young animals and birds which inevitably perish in the struggle for existence. But to set up an incomprehensible entity called nature is quite unworthy of rational thought.

As an agnostic I say man does not know the ultimate meaning of things (birth, life, death, the Universe), and quite probably never will. Of all the millions and millions of people who have traversed the road we are now treading not one returns or sends us one word of hope and encouragement. As Shakespeare has so well said: "It puzzles the will."

For Victoria's Benefit

We were delighted to read in the Times that one of the finest ideas for Victoria and its future, has been offered. Burns House Hotel and the old Courthouse are two of the best buildings of their period, in Victoria, and for that reason alone, should not, under any circumstances, be destroyed.

To use the old Courthouse for an Arts Centre, seems sound good sense and would provide facilities which Victoria does not adequately possess at present. The location is ideal and would, through the encouragement of the arts, serve an infinitely larger part of the population than were it to house a maritime museum.

The use of the Courthouse in this way would add to the beauty and function of that area of Victoria adjacent to the proposed Civic Precinct.

Congratulations, Mr. Alan Edwards! Trees and shrubbery in Bastion Square as depicted by the artist would add a fitting landscape for the home of music, potting and painting! We eagerly look forward to more specific plans for this project.

NELL M. BRADSHAW. (Mrs.)

Who?

Referring to your editorial of October 17 entitled "Towards a Brotherhood," I would just like to put the following questions to you, and you can answer them for yourself.

Who demands that the state support confessional sectarian schools for the furtherance of their propaganda? Who places the stigma of illegitimacy upon innocent children simply because their parents, though legally married in the eyes of the law, were not married by priests of Rome? Who insists that in the case of mixed marriages that the unborn children of that union MUST be brought up in the Catholic faith? Who is it that burns bibles in Spain, and reduces protestants there to the rank of second and third class citizens and deprives them of their livelihood?

Who closes protestant public schools and burns down the churches and beats and murders protestant pastors and preachers in Colombia? Who is it that invented and proclaimed the infallibility of an Italian pope and dogmatically asserts that he is supreme arbiter of men and nations, the Voice of God on earth? Has Rome ever renounced any of these dogmas or given any evidence now or in the past of doing so?

W. R. WALTERS.

Keep Our Heads

Let us keep our heads and not be led. Anything and everything should be done to avert a third, and probably, final war.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker's suggestion of a neutral inspection in Cuba is sane and sensible, and he lost no time in making it. It would set all doubts at rest, and until it is done there will be doubts in the minds of many. The photos were taken from a great altitude. One despatch from Washington says "The government did not know positively that there were nuclear warheads in Cuba." In that case it would seem their action is premature.

If the Cubans and Russians are telling the truth then they have nothing to fear from an inspection which should set the mind of the world at rest. So far, there are two conflicting statements and we have a right to know the facts.

In the final analysis it must be borne in mind that both the U.S.A. and the U.S.S.R. signed the United Nations charter. No individual nation has a right to act on its own without first consulting the U.N., or at least informing it. This is not the first time it has been done. Why sign the Charter if we do not intend keeping its rules?

To Damage The Image

By ANTHONY VERRIER, from London

MR. NEHRU has made a call to arms and warned his countrymen of a long struggle against Chinese aggression. But the present military situation in the North East Frontier Agency, and to a lesser extent at the other end of the front in Ladakh, could be remedied—provided sufficiently clear political directives are given and energetic generalship is shown by the Indian government and general staff.

Although the Indian Army has suffered a reverse, with possibly damaging consequences on its morale (and thus a danger of rifts between senior officers and Mr. Krishna Menon, the Minister of Defence), the Chinese forces have their problems also. Unless they have already been committed to a winter occupation of the NEFA, they may find themselves badly deployed and over-extended, in territory that inhibits continuous large-scale operations.

If one reads the lengthy and turgid correspondence which has been conducted for the past seven years between Mr. Nehru and the Chinese Premier, Mr. Chou En-lai, over where the true India-China frontier lies, it seems clear that China's object has been to force an Indian political and military reaction which would damage its image of a peaceful, neutral power, and weaken its economy by a disproportionate expenditure on the armed forces.

To put it another way, Mr. Chou En-lai has wanted to ensure that India did not become the most diplomatically influential and militarily powerful Far Eastern State. He has succeeded now in this immediate objective.

Sideshow

In this context the border disputes themselves are a sideshow. The areas are barren and virtually uninhabited. Although both countries seem increasingly prestige conscious, neither Mr. Nehru nor Mr. Chou En-lai is likely to feel personally perturbed if a few square miles change hands in a snow-storm—and it must be remembered that last April Indian forces conducted a vigorous and successful local offensive in Ladakh. But China has an important secondary objective in her attack in the NEFA.

Unlike Ladakh, where a mountain barrier any serious incursion, that part of the NEFA bordering on Bhutan offers favourable terrain for a Chinese advance, however short in duration, to the Brahmaputra valley and the disaffected areas of Assam.

Farther east is an unstable Burma; south lies Bengal, divided between Pakistan and India and traditionally the sub-continent's most politically volatile area. West lie the feudal kingdoms of Sikkim and Bhutan, garrisoned now by Indian troops. Farther west lies the cockpit of Nepal, where India and China wage a diplomatic war, which for some time has been going in China's favor.

The Indian Army has, therefore, no option but to fight very hard indeed amongst the mountains, gorges and streams of the NEFA, and basically there is little choice but to stand or retreat.

The Indian Army commander in the NEFA, Lieutenant-General B. M. Kaul, may be tempted to retreat much farther south, in the hope of drawing Chinese forces so far forward that they find it difficult to extricate themselves.

Battle Zone

The best way to consider the terrain is to imagine the 14,000 foot Tangle ridge as the knuckles of a hand, whose fingers are gorges and streams running south to the Brahmaputra. Until last week the knuckles were the battle zone between both sides' forward positions, neither of which were held in strength.

General Kaul's original operational plan envisaged a strong defence of the Tangle ridge, with reinforcements of veteran airborne and Gurkha units supporting a decisive local offensive, once airdrops had guaranteed ammunition and supplies. All depended on timing, so that the offensive could be executed before the Chinese retaliated and benefitted by the terrain and their shorter lines of communication.

The Chinese, however, attacked first, maintaining their offensive in what Mr. Menon described as "divisional strength." Given this "five-fingered" terrain, General Kaul cannot hope to establish a continuous defensive front. He must defend each local area. Hence, reports of heavy casualties are probably accurate.

Nevertheless it would be premature to regard the battle as lost. Indian troops are still at a tactical disadvantage, but with each passing day their position should improve, unless Mr. Chou En-lai is really prepared to embark on a war of a Korean scale. The conflict would then pass on to the international stage, with consequences nobody could foresee.

Strong Reaction To World News

TORONTO—The stock market remained sharply higher during heavy mid-afternoon trading today.

Industrials jumped almost seven index points in the first hour of trading, and maintained that level fairly well, slipping back a minor fraction.

Gains of one point or more went to Alberta Gas, Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce, Distillers Seagrams, Imperial Oil and Investors Syndicate A.

NEW YORK—The stock market remained sharply higher late this afternoon but prices were a bit below their best as trading slowed.

At noon the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up 3.7 at 214.9.

The market rose from the start in response to the apparent agreement on Cuba.

Space-age defence issues lagged in the early advance and in late trading showed virtually no gain. Steels backed away from initial gains and also traded about unchanged on balance.

MONTREAL—Stocks continued to push forward aggressively near the close today on the Montreal and Canadian exchanges. As a group, banks were particularly impressive. Trading was moderately active.

Bank of Montreal rose a point to 58. Royal 1-3-5 to 7.1, Imperial Commerce 1/2 to 5.7, and Toronto-Dominion 1/2 to 5.8.

Western oils, refineries and utilities also gained. Rio rose five cents to $8.45, Canadian Husky 1/4 to 7.4.

VANCOUVER—Trading was moderate today. Central Del rose to $8.45 and Prudential Pete was up at 11.4. Bethlehem Copper was up at $2.05 and Grandeur rose to $3. McKinney was up at 32 and the Peso rose to $1.15. Mt. Washington went to $1.05 while Western Mines was up at $2.15 and B.C. Power to $18.4.

$ EXCHANGE—Banks buying cheques at 1/2 premium, notes 1/4 premium, selling cheques at 1/2 premium, notes 1/4 premium. Buying silver $1.94.

MONTREAL—The U.S. dollar was at a premium of 1/2 cent in terms of Canadian funds, the Bank of Montreal reported here, noon today. Pound sterling was $2.01 1/2.

NEW YORK—(CP)—Canadian dollar at 92 1/2 in terms of U.S. funds. Pound sterling was $2.01 1/2.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Flax and rye were down sharply towards the close of moderate trading today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Mixed selling came into the flax market including offerings for United States accounts. Export houses were on the sidelines and commercial demand was not aggressive.

Rye followed the lower trend of the Chicago market.

CHICAGO—The grain futures market slumped within the first half-hour of dealings on the board of trade today, then levelled off in slackened activity.

The selling was described as profit cashing and liquidation and was linked with Russia's announcement that it will withdraw its missile bases from Cuba.

Brokers said the decision pulled from the market nearly all the influences on which strong speculative support sent prices leaping upward last weekend after President Kennedy announced the Cuban blockade would be imposed.

Canadian Ports Handle More Freight

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian ports handled 22,632,000 tons of freight in July, 1.7 per cent more than the same month a year ago, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported today.

Freight handled in the January-July period was 91,870,000 tons, up 4.6 per cent from the same 1961 period.

Vessel arrivals and departures were up 2.8 per cent in the month to 31,301 and the registered net tonnage was up 4.7 per cent to 38,223,900.

Arrivals and departures were down 2.3 per cent in the January-July period to 146,134 and the registered net tonnage was up 0.8 per cent to 169,315,500.

Canadian ports handling the greatest volume of freight in tons in July, with July, 1961 figures in brackets.

Montreal 2,621,800 (2,444,900), Sept.-Oct. 2,204,000 (1,471,000), Vancouver 1,474,400 (1,040,900), Hamilton 1,314,500 (1,189,500), Port Arthur-Fort William 1,237,400 (1,631,500).

LAST SHIP LEAVES BAY FOR WINTER

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—The Canuk Trader, sailing out of Montreal, headed home through the icy waters of Hudson Bay today loaded with empty oil drums, grain screenings and mixed feed oats.

The last cargo ship out of Hudson Bay this year, she left behind 25 tons of supplies she was unable to unload at Eskimo Point, N.W.T.

Capt. F. W. Jones, working with a crew of Hong Kong Chinese, none of whom had ever seen ice before, was forced to leave Eskimo Point, 140 miles north of here, abandoning two barges, when the bay in which the ship was unloading became ice-filled.

BRITISH TOURISTS GUNNED DOWN

NUORO, Sardinia (AP) — A British tourist and his wife were machine-gunned to death Sunday in the hilly Sardinian bandit country.

More than 100 police with dogs, joined by Sardinian farmers carrying pitchforks and shotguns, hunted the killers.

Sardinian authorities identified the victims as Edmond Peregrine Townley and his wife, Vera Kathleen Beardsley Townley, both about 50.

Authorities said the Townleys, both Kenya-born, were slain in a wooded area along a country road between Nuoro and Orgosolo.

Authorities said the bandits then fled—rather than robbing the bodies—for fear that the shots had been heard by police patrols.

Notice of Dividend No. 72B

At a meeting of the Board of Directors held on the 24th October, 1962, a quarterly dividend of fifteen cents (15c) per share and an extra dividend of seven cents (7c) per share were declared payable on the issued shares of the Company in Canadian funds on the 15th December, 1962, to shareholders of record as of the 14th November, 1962, and to holders of share warrants.

Said dividends will be paid at par in respect of the shares specified in any bearer share warrant of the Company upon presentation and delivery of Coupon No. 72B, on or after 18th December, 1962, at any branch of the Bank of Montreal in Canada (for the northern points) excepted, or at the offices of Agency Bank of Montreal, New York, or Bank of Montreal (San Francisco), San Francisco, or at the First National Bank of Chicago, Chicago.

By Order of the Board,
O. D. ECCOTT,
Secretary,
Vancouver, B.C.,
October 24, 1962.

U.K. General Sees Site Of 'Pig War'

The scrub land of San Juan Island trodden by his grandfather 100 years ago was visited for the first time Sunday by Maj-Gen. Sir Rohan Delacombe, commanding officer of the Royal Royal Regiment.

The Highland regiment commander was here as colonel of the regiment to the Canadian Scottish (Princess Mary's), which is affiliated with The Royal Scots.

His grandfather was for six years the commanding officer of the Royal Marine Light Infantry garrison on San Juan Island during the U.S.-British border dispute, known as the "Pig War." Sir Rohan's father was six years old when Capt. Delacombe left the garrison.

TOOK PICTURES

In company with 15 officers of the Canadian Scottish, Gen. Delacombe saw all the surviving points of historical interest at Garrison Bay, and took a number of photographs to show his friends in Scotland.

Lieut.-Col. Peter Ramsay, CO of the Scottish, said the State of Washington hopes to take over the former garrison land—which is privately owned—and restore it to an historical site.

The main building burned down, but there remains a waterfront blockhouse, a billet, signs of an old jetty, the military cemetery with stone and some faded wooden markers, and a plaque commemorating the "war."

Gen. Delacombe and the other officers were taken to Roche Harbor by H. A. Wallace in his yacht De Anza III.

RECEPTION

Saturday night, to the skill and roll of the Scottish pipes and drums, Gen. Delacombe was guest at a sergeants' mess reception, then an officers' dinner attended by Lieutenant-Governor George Pearkes.

He told the officers the Cuba flareup was similar in many ways to the 1959 Berlin crisis when Premier Khrushchev told the Allies to demilitarize.

This ultimatum expired without incident, but there will be more in other parts of the world, the general said.

Veteran Bishop Dies in Regina

REGINA (CP)—Rev. Edwin Hubert Knowles, 88-year-old retired Anglican Bishop of Qu'Appelle. His career included homesteading, teaching, trapping and hunting in territorial days, and he retired in March, 1950, after serving for more than 40 years in the Anglican ministry in Saskatchewan.

He was a bishop for 14 years.

VANCOUVER CLUB ... TAKES B.C. TITLE

Bombers Trim Hornets

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Junior Big Four champion Vancouver Blue Bombers Sunday swamped Victoria Hornets 32-7 before 760 fans to capture the sudden-death B.C. junior football championship.

Blue Bombers advance now to the western Canada semi-final against Edmonton Huskies, in Edmonton next weekend.

Bombers jumped to a 19-0 first-quarter lead and had pushed it to 26-0 by halftime.

Bombers were paced by John Kochan with three plunging touchdowns.

Quarterback Dave Haywood, on the Bombers' 40-yard-line, passed to Dave Rees in the end zone for Victoria's major score, converted by Barry Irving.

Bombers rushed for 343 yards and 31 first downs. Their defense held the Victoria Club to 181 rushing and 17 first downs.

Hot Firemen Tripped Up By a Bench

United 1, Firefighters 1
By ERNIE FEDORUK

Victoria United manager Wally Milligan threw his "bench" onto the Royal Athletic Park turf, and that always handy object tripped Vancouver Firefighters in their bid for a fifth straight Pacific Coast Soccer League triumph Saturday.

Victoria tied Firefighters 1-1, and it was United's bench strength that saved this particular day for 1,056 partisan fans.

Wally Dunc McCaig, of the reserve force, scored 13 minutes before full time to give United its draw with the talent-packed Firemen.

And a draw was about the best to expect. Vancouver dominated the first half and the strong finish belonged to United.

Firemen were unlucky in not stepping away with a larger lead, as provided by Louis Trischuk, at half time.

Trischuk's scoring shot was deflected off Victoria's Geoff Hill at the 30-minute mark, but Firemen saw better chances go awry.

Bob Babcock twice shot wide of the Victoria goal and the dangerous Jimmy Blundell also missed the mark on an excellent chance in the first half.

On another occasion, Greg Arnett walked in only to be beaten by United goalkeeper Barry Sadler.

Firemen consistently beat United players to the ball and Victoria's attack was sadly lacking in method in the first half.

United Youngsters Turn the Tide

United improved, however, after the break. Coincidental or not, the tide turned after Milligan sent in his reserves.

Ash Waldal, 18, went in for George Paul. McCaig replaced Chummy Cabbie on the wing and 17-year-old Russ Ball went to centre-forward in place of Mel Cooper. All three played well. Waldal in particular made several fine moves.

United also received strong performances from halfback George Wright and fullback Ron Jenkin. And inside Dave Stothard made up for a so-so performance in the first half with a strong second half.

With Hill blanketing Blundell, who leads the PCSL with seven goals, Firefighters raided only sporadically in the second half and their defence scrambled under Victoria pressure. But they had the alert Ken Pears in goal, and the veteran keeper saved himself trouble time and again.

The tying goal came after rightwinger Henry Vanderhorst made a fine play to give Cooper a close-in chance. Pears came out to make a brilliant, rolling save on Cooper but the ball came loose and McCaig, who had come on only 10 minutes before, managed to get the ball in the net before Pears could get to his feet.

Seaman Killed In Car Crash

ALBERNI — An unidentified English seaman died early Saturday while being taken to hospital following a traffic accident on the nearby Sproat Lake highway.

LADYSMITH — President Ted Thomason of Alberni, was re-elected at the annual meeting of the Vancouver Island Dairymen's Association.

Vice-president is Edgar Smith and treasurer, John Hulbert.

DUNCAN — Local district agriculturist Ken R. Jameson reports that two courses in animal breeding and reproduction will be given at Nanaimo, on Nov. 23 and 30. If sufficient interest is shown by farmers.

NANAIMO — Faulty electrical wiring is believed to have caused the fire that did $300,000 damage to the S. Madill Ltd. machinery works in Nanaimo early last Friday.

RCMP said today there is no indication that the blaze was caused by arson.

It appears there will not be a long layoff for the 60 workers whose jobs are affected by the fire. New equipment can be obtained quickly and will enable production to be resumed shortly.

NANAIMO — A resolution calling for the appointment of a Royal Commission to inquire into the original terms of a land grant made to E and N Railway Co. and the Canadian Pacific Railway, was endorsed Saturday at a meeting of the Vancouver Island Ratepayers' Association.

The E and N Railway land grant which includes nearly 25 per cent of Vancouver Island, was strongly criticized at the meeting.

"Vancouver Island is getting a raw deal," said Mike Hamilton of Parksville.

Profit made from the company's land sale and timber leases is being all withdrawn from the Island, he said.

COQUITENAY — Mayor W. C. Moore in a new move to combat the menace of firecracker season, has asked police to crack down on use of fireworks by juveniles.

The mayor said principals of city schools are co-operating by warning children of the new ban.

Mayor Moore said it is too late to enact a bylaw amendment prohibiting sales in time for this Halloween but he would ask council to pass a sales ban for next year.

Only adults will be allowed to set off fireworks outside the downtown area under the present clampdown. A ban on use of fireworks anywhere in the downtown district already is provided in city bylaws.

Mayor Moore first expressed concern Thursday on receiving reports two children suffered eye injuries the first day of legal sales of firecrackers. A check with other council members prompted the request for police action, he said.

He pointed out any sales ban adopted by council likely would provide exemption for fireworks displays by organized community events.

NEW ROAD DUE FOR INDIANS AFTER SIX DIE

B.C. will build a road to an isolated Indian village where six people were drowned on a treacherous water crossing earlier this year.

A highways department official said construction will start as soon as possible on a link between the Indian village of Kitimat and the city of Kitimat.

Residents of the village have demanded the road since the boating accident last April.

At present only way to get from the village to the city is across three miles of dangerous Douglas Channel.

The 1.9 mile road will be started as soon as negotiations are completed with the Aluminum Company of Canada for right of way.

Provincial and federal governments will share the costs 50-50.

The courses will offer: The basic principle of animal breeding, genetic aspects of pure breeding, performance testing and sire appraisal, and the technique and use of artificial insemination.

Lecturers will be Dr. W. D. Klits and Dr. J. Berry, both of UBC.

SIDNEY — Fisherman Dale Corser of Sidney was fined $25 and his catch, valued at $127, was ordered forfeited when he pleaded guilty in Sidney RCMP court Saturday to taking cod under the statutory 12 inches.

Fisheries investigators laid the charge Friday under the Fisheries Act.

CAMPBELL RIVER — The recent blood donor clinic had good response.

There were a total of 465 donors, double the total obtained last year.

PROOF IN B.C. STATISTICS

Victoria's Weather Still Best

Proof of the Victoria conviction that this city enjoys highly superior weather is contained in a breakdown of British Columbia's 1961 climate compiled by meteorologist William H. Mackie.

Last year, the sage of Gonzales 11th notes in the hottest, coldest, wettest, sunniest volume on record, we never had it warmer than a downtown 97 degrees in July, or cooler than a December dip to 27 above Fahrenheit.

Victoria's mean temperature—an unfortunate term for our balmy average—was 51 degrees on Gonzales and 51 in town, a figure matched only by Merry Island upcoast and Lytton on the mainland.

We did have a spot more rain than usual, 28.91 inches at Gonzales against a 48-year average of 27.35, but balanced it with a below-normal 2.9 inches of snow, against the 11.8-inch average.

Those figures, though, are a mere drop in the bucket when compared with the torrential 195.96 inches of rain registered at Seymour Falls in North Vancouver, and the 444.6-inch snowfall that winter brought to Allison Pass at the Hope-Princeton Highway summit.

As to extremes of heat and cold, Victoria wasn't broiled by the 104 degrees run up by Lytton, Sugar Lake and Duncan—a town that once sizzled in a fantastic 106. Nor did we risk frostbite with the brittle 42 below zero which February of 1961 brought to Lower Post.

The only one department, hours of bright sunshine, did the city you follow the gulls to lag a trifle, and even there, our 2,256-hour total was 49 above the 48-year average. A fruit-picker's camp in the Okanagan—Oliver, they call it—claimed 2,323 hours, and trading post named Fort St. John alleges 2,319 hours of sunlight last year.

Fights: 'Emotional' Housecleaning

Howard Whitman, noted writer on human affairs, in this series, points ways to make your marriage more vibrant, more exciting—more like you always dreamed it would be.

By HOWARD WHITMAN

The marriage vows might well be amended as follows: "... to love, honor, and cherish—and put up with occasional fights."

Whitman

Occasional fights are normal. At a recent professional meeting, a psychiatrist said, "If a couple have no fights, better send them in for treatment."

This does not mean that fights should be the marital order of the day, or night. A friend of mine, as best man at a wedding, misread a congratulatory telegram as, "May you have many, many martial years together." Of course it said marital, not martial. And there is a difference.

Let's admit the worst of the outset. Married people do spat. Peter Sellers, in a recent movie, characterized marriage as "a series of undeclared wars and cease fires." A noted psychologist went further, describing marriage as "a state of antagonistic co-operation." And a prominent naturalist wrote, "Real genuine marriage can only be found among birds." This is as far as he went, he didn't say marriage was for the birds.

Manage to Persist

Marriage persists, and even some of the fightingest marriages persist. A happily married woman said to me, "Sure I fight with my husband. You see, he is the one man in the world I'd best like to fight with."

A wise professor of philosophy, Horace Fries, of Columbia University, once remarked, "It would be a mistake to attempt to eliminate all the friction in marriage; that would thin the relationship. What we want to do is enrich it—make it capable of absorbing the frictions."

No fights may mean that hostile feelings are being repressed, and there may be a deep festering inside. Occasional spats get the ill feelings out. And don't kid yourself, even the best people have them.

Lincoln's contretemps with Mary Todd are a matter of history. The story is told of his returning home to the White House late one night and being greeted by Mrs. Lincoln with, "So you finally came back. I guess home is the best place after all."

To which Lincoln replied, "It's the only place open." Every young couple approaching marriage ought to be forewarned to expect some discord. We don't want love at first sight—and hate-at-first fight.

The discord really isn't dangerous—if it's anticipated and taken in stride. The real danger is to expect unsullied romance 24 hours a day every day of the year. Couples sailing into marriage under such an illusion run the risk of abandoning ship at the first big storm. But if they expect a certain number of storms, as any navigator does, they are more likely to batten down the hatches and weather it through.

The "fights" in marriage serve—the good purpose of catharsis, an emotional housecleaning. We often speak of "getting something off our chests" or "blowing off a little steam" and recognize the value of these outlets. Marriage, like other relationships in life, must provide them.

Divide Troubles

Even beyond this, marriage provides an emotional buffer against the outside world. One jokes about the husband accumulating aggravation in his work all day long and coming home to kick the dog.

The situation has its basis in fact; though, to the relief of those who love animals, there is no reason why the poor dog should be the goat. There need not be any goat.

Husband and wife marry with the idea of sharing, and sharing means divvying up the office aggravations as well as the pay cheque. It similarly means sharing the aggravations of running the house and caring for the children as well as sharing the love of the home-cooked meal and Johnny's all-A report card.

Each partner, husband and wife, occasionally finds the world a little tough to bear and builds up such a load of inner anguish that he cannot carry it alone. And so in the sharing-of-marriage one mate simply lays off part of the burden on the other. Together they can carry it; alone, either one might have stumbled and fallen.

But sharing does not often take the form of, "I had a terribly miserable day at the office, dear. Won't you listen and sympathize while I tell you all about it?"

If it were that simple the gentleman in question could simply go to the nearest bar and talk to the fellow on the next stool.

Not Proper Target

More likely, he is up to his neck with emotional tension, greatly frustrated at being unable to let it out against its proper target (perhaps the boss or his business associate or the customer who wouldn't buy). And so he comes home in a kind of emotional blindness knowing only that he needs to let out some pretty bitter feeling at someone.

He may lash out at his wife for some small oversight in her shopping list or for failing to have soap in the bathroom or having the car washed instead of greased.

The triumph of understanding on the part of this man's wife would be to look beyond mere vocal raiment in which his emotions are clad and try to see the aggravation and frustration bulging underneath.

In reverse circumstances, the husband might find himself able to bring into action the heroic understanding which says in an inner voice, "I know my wife seems to be lashing out at me for no reason at all. That very fact tells me that she is greatly beset and needs my help. She has more than she can carry. I'll let her lay off some of the burden on me."

Understand Storms

The problem is not to eliminate the storms in marriage but rather to understand them. They have their constructive meaning. The total absence of conflict—no heat and sparks—might mean that no fusion was taking place. Instead, that cold indifference has settled upon the marriage. Either one partner is so submerged that no conflict is possible (for he dare not raise an angry or dissenting voice) or the two are more or less disinterested in one another. There even may be someone else on the outside who has become for each the true emotional partner: perhaps a confidant, perhaps a professional counsellor, perhaps a parent to whom one returns at apron string, or perhaps even a suitor—or "other woman."

The storms in marriage are not to be feared, but to be weathered. These pointers may help:

1. Identify the storm. Just as the meteorologist identified out "Carols" and our "Ednas," so the married couple, seeing the clouds gather, can say, in effect, "Better batten down the hatches; it looks like a howler is on the way." Then they'll be prepared; they will not be taken by storm.

Send Up Signals

2. Send up a flare. This means if the bad weather is going to come from your direction, you might give your mate a warning. We know when we're out of sorts. Can't we muster up the charity to say, "I'm pretty tense today, darling. Watch out—I may let loose at anything." Whereupon the wise mate gives you wide berth.

3. Reef those sails. No matter how exasperating your ever-loving spouse may be, you're better off to lay low during a storm. Run at full sail in a blow and you only capsize. Wait out the storm; then you can unfurl your sails and set your course—much more safely.

4. Recognize that storms in marriage are normal. Every marriage, like every year, has its periodic equinox. Though in marriage these are not so precisely predictable. But there is comfort in the inner voice which says, "We're no different from anyone else. I guess we're just going to have a fight now and then and that's that."

5. Remember—"This, too, will pass." These may be the most comforting words in the English language. In tragedy, in affliction, or even in that sullen moment when love seems to have turned to hate, the knowledge that we live in a world of constant movement is reassuring.

The last storm passed, and so will this one. Tomorrow we will laugh about it.

Next: COMMUNICATE—NEVER CLAM UP.

BUT BIG BANGS CAN STILL COME IN SMALL PACKAGES

Halloween's Heavy Artillery Muffled by Headquarters

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Sorry, lads and dads, but if you want to celebrate Halloween with bombs longer than two inches, better hustle!

Ottawa, the old spool-sport, this year has banned heavier ammunition in the interests of safety. The only four-inch bombs on sale in Victoria are stock left over from 1961 and the supply is melting like a snowball down where the brimstone isn't just reserved for All Hallow's Eve.

For a number of years now, Federal, Mines and Technical Surveys in co-operation with the RCMP has been saving fingers, eyes and noses by reducing the potency of our holiday explosives.

OUTLAWED
Gone is the cannon cracker, fatter than a stick of dynamite and with a blast only less window-rattling. Sky rockets. They've been outlawed—officially, at least—for the past 10 years.

Each shipment of Chinese and domestic fireworks is tested by government inspectors armed with detailed and even more stringent specification lists. Too much whoomp, and out goes that particular item.

Take heart, though. Size of a cracker, according to an expert in the business is only one factor in producing a good loud bang. Of at least equal importance is the way the black powder charge is compounded, and the tightness with which it is sealed in its gay red cylinder.

CHIEF IMPORTER
Flanked by shelves laden with a highly combustible cargo, Jack Lee, manager of Morley Co., and lieutenant-governor of Vancouver Island Kiwanis Clubs, discussed on fireworks with authority gained from many years as chief Victoria importer.

Eastern Canada supplies Roman candles and related dispensers of stars, colored balls and sparkle-showers, but bombs, lady fingers and the red-inch-and-three-quarters cracker which remains the prime favorite come from Hong Kong.

"The larger pieces are made in factories," Mr. Lee said, "but the work is almost all hand labor, and a lot of the crackers are turned out by sampan families—boat-dwellers, that is—from materials supplied by a company. Packing has changed a little, but the crackers haven't. In size, shape and color, they go back as far as gunpowder... and we invented that."

FATHER BUYS
Fathers buy most of the fireworks sold in Mr. Lee's

Figard Street store, spending at the rate of about $2.50 per child. The occasional plunger, especially if his is an only child, will put down $6 or $7.

Chinese-Canadian children enjoy their Halloween crackers, too, and Chinese fathers, said Mr. Lee, have just as much trouble keeping the kids from setting 'em off in advance of spook-night.

Communal firework sprees, often in the form of a street, district or fire department party, have helped tame Halloween, and Mr. Lee agrees emphatically that the change is all for the good. There's no jubilation when someone gets hurt, and in China, crackers are associated with jubilee.

"The Chinese don't light fireworks just to scare off evil spirits as you may have heard," Jack Lee explained. "It's also to create a festive spirit. Why, in a parade, a popping of crackers has the effect of a hundred kettledrums."

On the day Japan capitulated, he remembers, the crackers popped on Fisgard Street in an hour-long volley.

His own preference? "Well," said Mr. Lee, Victoria-born UBC graduate, "What I like is to touch off a string of lady fingers and listen to them crackle!"

VICTORIA, B.C., MONDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1962—PAGE 17

MONTE ROBERTS

Gather 'round, constituents, and I'll tell you where I have not been during the past week.

I have not been to San Francisco, that's where I have not been.

I failed to go to San Francisco due to the World Crisis (which is like the World Series, except in the World Series, you know who wins).

Not only did the World Crisis prevent me from going to San Francisco, it cost me the cash sum of one dollar and fifty cents, made up of six equal payments of twenty-five cents per.

This just goes to show that no individual, anywhere, can any longer stand aloof from a World Crisis.

We are all in the Front Line this time, and we all have to pay.

In my case, one dollar and fifty cents. Cash.

No doubt, constituents, you can hardly wait for details of how I failed to go to San Francisco.

Well, I had a few days off coming to me (days off are not to be confused with vacation, holiday, or leave, but that's another story, as the high-rise architect said to the zoning committee).

So I worked up a little plan to hitch-hike a ride to San Francisco and back, using various forms of military transport which were going and coming in that direction in the course of the normal execution of duty.

This little plan was justified by my intention to write several yards of deathless prose about military and naval matters. Although said "writing" would not exactly have a negative effect on my attendance at a meeting between the San Francisco and Los Angeles representatives in the National Football League.

(In case you think I'm being a little vague, and talking through my hat, it is because I cannot reveal too many details for fear of betraying military secrets.)

So what happened? The World Crisis happened, and chances of the kind of hitch-hiking I had in mind dissolved like a cube of sugar in hot water.

Consequently, I failed to go to San Francisco, and instead of sitting comfortably in the press box at Kezar Stadium, I was sitting uncomfortably at home, shelling out in a pre-Halloween display which still leaves me cringing.

My Favorite Wife, you see, made six bets with me over the weekend—two hockey, five football—and picked six for six, batted 1.000, and collected for a total of one dollar and fifty cents.

If I had not failed to go to San Francisco, due to the World Crisis, I would not have been in a position to be conned into contributing MFW's pin money for the week.

Darn that World Crisis. Almost enough to make a man vote Republican.

National Gallery Buys Painting By City Woman

Margaret Peterson of Victoria has had one of her paintings purchased by the National Gallery of Canada in Ottawa, it was learned today.

The painting, called "The Vision of Tzouhalem," was included in the one-woman show which Miss Peterson was accorded at Greater Victoria Art Gallery in July.

A former art teacher of the University of California, Miss Peterson—who is married to Howard O'Hagan, the writer—lives at 217 St. Andrews Street in the old Emily Carr studio workshop.

Local curator Colin Graham recently described Miss Peterson as "one of the most underrated artists in Canada" and predicted that her greatness in delineating the symbols and moods of tribal impressions would bring her international stature and acclaim.

Among other Victorians to have works bought by the national gallery are the late Emily Carr, Fenwick Lansdowne and Jack Shadbolt.

PARTIES PLANNED

Supervised Halloween parties will be held through-out Greater Victoria Wednesday night.

Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Central Saanich, Langford, Colwood and Metchosin will give their usual bonfire parties, featuring costume competitions, with prizes, refreshments and fireworks.

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club and municipal firemen will stage a bonfire and costume party in the fire hall starting at 6:30 p.m.

Central Saanich Community Club will launch its bonfire party in the agricultural hall at 8 p.m.

Langford volunteer firemen, the women's auxiliary and PTA members will join forces to present a Halloween party at 6:30 p.m.

Esquimalt Lions Club will have fireworks, bonfires, candy and treats for the youngsters at Bullen Park and the Little League ball park on Colville Road at 6:30 p.m.

Sidney fire department is also planning a party. Colwood fire department will hold a party at the fire hall at 7 p.m.

Stan Hiscock of Luxton Community Association said his group will not be staging a party this year, as the area is "pretty well covered" by parties given by Langford and Metchosin firemen.

Study Urged On Proposals For Square

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell today proposed a full-scale review of the conflicting Bastion Square proposals.

He said all three plans for use of the vacant Courthouse building were worthy of consideration.

City Hall should make a thorough-going study of the various plans to decide which one it would support as going the furthest in realizing the full potential.

The three proposals are:

Relocate the Maritime Museum in the Courthouse;

Turn the building over to an arts centre which would establish schools of painting, music, drama and possibly ballet;

Set up a crafts centre in the building.

"There is no question that Bastion Square has a great potential and it should be realized," said Ald. Dowell.

"All the projects mentioned so far are worthy of consideration, but I think we should discuss them with a view to determining which one will provide the city with the best ultimate use of the Courthouse."

CARRY WEIGHT

Although the provincial government, which owns the building, will make the choice of use, city council's recommendation is expected to carry considerable influence.

Council also is in a position to set the whole tone of a rehabilitated square in the area by removing the parking lot and creating a small park.

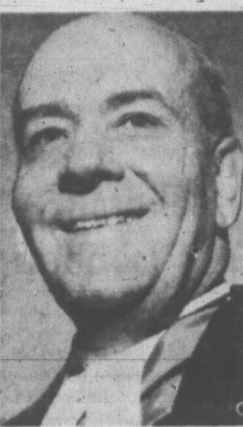

Aldermen last spring voted to back the Maritime Museum's request that it be given the building, but since then alternative proposals were made.

City businessman-artist, Brian Travers-Smith sent Premier Bennett and City Hall a letter urging establishment of a fine arts centre in the building.

SECOND STRATFORD

He said schools of art, music, drama and ballet would fit in well with the accommodation and give Victoria the chance for becoming a second Stratford.

"The dedication of the Courthouse as a non-profit fine arts centre would bring students and teachers from all over the continent," he wrote.

'Don't Believe In Pacifism'—Moderator

In a world torn by tension and strife, Christian churches must stand firmly behind the "international law of justice," says Very Rev. Ross K. Cameron, M.A., D.D., moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

"I do not believe in pacifism," said Dr. Cameron in an interview. "I believe a good churchman must be loyal to his country, but he must also be loyal to the principles of truth and justice. Happily there is no conflict between these principles and our loyalty to Canada and Britain."

Dr. Cameron came to Victoria to visit the British Columbia synod of the Presbyterian Church and he preached in St. Andrew's Church Sunday morning. The service was conducted by the minister, Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean, with whom Dr. Cameron graduated from Knox Theological College in 1930.

NOT JUSTIFIED

Asked if he saw any conflict between patriotic loyalty and the Sermon on the Mount (which has been much quoted by pacifists) Dr. Cameron said:

"The Sermon on the Mount was the statement of an ideal of human brotherhood which has not yet been reached. It does not justify pacifism under present conditions."

Oak Bay Starts Winter Works

Oak Bay's summer schedule of works projects is completed and the first of the 1962-63 winter works jobs are under way, engineer Geoffrey White said today.

The winter program, carried out with senior government assistance has started modestly with some sidewalk construction on Pacific and moves to the ninth unit subdivision in Hudson's Bay, Co. lands off Cedar Hill Cross Road.

Major works upcoming include road building and water reservoir jobs.

City Man Elected By Accountants

William T. Mann of Victoria was elected a governor of the Certified General Accountants Association at the annual meeting in Vancouver at the weekend. He is a former president of the organization.

Officers elected were James E. Spry, president; Raymond C. Wood, first vice-president, and Brian H. Edwards, second vice-president, all of Vancouver.

Clarification 'In Few Days' On Car Parks

City parking committee chairman Ald. Michael Griffin today indicated that the civic parking garage situation should be clarified in the next few days.

He said counter-offers will be made to claims for compensation by former owners and tenants on the View Street site now under construction.

If the city's counter-offers are not accepted, the disputes likely will be settled by arbitration.

Similarly, he said negotiations to acquire the second garage site on lower Yates is proceeding well now and "we should see this cleared up in the next few days."

Drinkers Smash Grave Markers

Ross Bay Damage $3,000

Ghouls destroyed grave markers and monuments after a drinking party Friday night in Ross Bay Cemetery.

Workmen in the city-operated cemetery discovered the damage today. City maintenance supervisor Cliff Bate said it was obviously a follow-up to a beer drinking session in the graveyard.

He estimated the damage to private plots at about $3,000. In many cases marble or granite crosses were knocked off their pedestals and smashed.

OUT OF WAY

Mr. Bate surmised the damage was done by minors who went to the graveyard to drink out of the way of police. He said that after getting "beered-up" the drinkers apparently showed off their strength by wrecking the monuments.

City employees do not work during the weekend so the damage was not discovered until today. Several persons saw beer bottles in the graveyard Saturday and it was this that enabled the timing of the destruction to be placed at overnight Friday.

It is not the first time that some damage has been done to the graveyard, according to Mr. Bate. But this is the first time that damage was on such a large scale.

The trail of destruction through the cemetery is marked by beer bottles. Altogether 41 markers and monuments were broken.

Mr. Bate said many of the markers and crosses were made of imported marble and will be difficult to replace. The city does not have insurance against vandalism in the graveyard.

It appears that owners of the private plots will have to pay the cost of repair or replacement.

Police began an immediate investigation after the vandalism was reported.

TWO YEARS

The most sensational vandalism in a graveyard on Vancouver Island took place six years ago at Greenwood Cemetery in Alberni.

It too involved teenagers who had been drinking. Four of them actually desecrated a grave.

A public outcry and an intensive police hunt resulted in their arrest and conviction. Sentences up to two years imprisonment were imposed.

CEMETERY CHANGES APPROVED

B.C. Public Utilities Commission today approved a further step in the gradual transformation of Ross Bay Cemetery to a lawn cemetery.

It gave permission for the city to remove cracked and broken copings on another 115 graves and to sow grass in their place.

No objections were taken to the city's proposal, the PUC noted.

About 400 of the most dilapidated graves already have been improved in the past 18 months under the city's plans to make all graves in the cemetery neat and tidy.

TUESDAY MEETINGS

Victoria Electric Club: 12:05 p.m., Net Loft, Earl Jarvis. The Case for Electric Heat.

Kiwanis Club of Victoria: 12:10 p.m., Empress Hotel. Anthony Roberts, "Planning in Victoria in the Next 100 Years."

Kiwanis Club of Victoria North: 6:15 p.m., Tally Ho. Annual meeting and election of officers.

Victoria (Chinatown) Lions: 6:30 p.m., Ming's Kitchen.

LATEST NAVY CRAFT is this plastic tender which looks as if it has three bows. Actually the two outside are only flares. Four of these craft arrived today at Esquimalt to replace the traditional wooden boats. The 13-foot Boston whaler was designed and built by a commercial boat builder and was adopted by the RCN after extensive tests.

Balmy 60s Break Weather Records

Victoria broke all records today and Sunday with the highest known temperatures for Oct. 28 and 29.

It was 60.8 at noon today—and moving higher. The previous record was 59.9 on Oct. 29, 1914.

Early Sunday afternoon, the temperature rose to 63.2 against a previous record of 61.8 for Oct. 28, 1914.

Weatherman Bill Mackie forecasts continuing warm weather today and Tuesday apart from some fog patches in the morning.

Nanaimo had its highest recorded temperature for Oct. 28 Sunday when the thermometer rose to 65.

Most of Vancouver Island is sharing this idyllic October weather.

Robert J. Robinson, 65, was reported in "fair" condition. For over a week he was on the "critical" list.

The retired employee was found in his room in staff quarters at the home where he had been bludgeoned with a blunt instrument. He had also been set afire.

Police suspect robbery was the motive for the attack.

A psychiatric aid at the home, Peter H. Dootson, has been charged with attempted murder.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. How do they get the name "Candlestick Park"?

A. Candlestick Park, the home of the San Francisco Giants baseball club, is located on Candlestick Point, after which it is named. This point extends out into San Francisco Bay.

Q. Where could I get samples of different types of lava rock? K.P.

A. A mineralogical branch of the department of mines reports there are good exposures of all types at the junctions of Glen Lake and Metchosin Roads. Pillow lava can be found along Velfch Creek, near Glen Lake.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

A Halloween Jamboree organized by Frank Hobbs PTA will be held in Frank Hobbs school Friday from 6 to 9 p.m.

A high-fidelity set valued at more than $400 was reported stolen from a Rockland Ave. suite over Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Missing from a suite belonging to Oleg Stavrov, now at sea with HMCS St. Catharines, were an AM-FM radio, record player and earphones worth $68.

Entrance to the apartment at 1793 Rockland was gained by smashing a glass panel on the door and unlatching it from the inside.

A man was taken to hospital and heavy damage done to two cars in a crash at Shakespeare and Denman Saturday evening.

Harold Crouch, 36, 2223 Shakespeare, was released from Royal Jubilee Hospital after receiving treatment for minor head injuries.

He was driver of a car which was in collision with one driven by Thomas H. Hughes, 2214 Belmont.

A court of revision will be held at 5 p.m. Thursday in the municipal hall of Esquimalt.

Reeve A. C. Wurtel does not expect anyone to attend except councillors. He cannot remember there ever having been an appeal.

A copy of the revised list of voters may be seen at the municipal hall between 9 and 5 p.m. weekdays.

A marine constable with the RCMP was to appear in Esquimalt police court this afternoon on a charge of dangerous driving.

Const. Malcolm Joseph LaFreniere, of the RCMP vessel Victoria, was the driver of a car involved in an accident which took the life of Mrs. Doris Bendall, 512 Fraser, September 15, on Esquimalt Road at Macaulay Street.

A city longshoreman is in "good" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today where she legs were crushed by a falling crate Saturday.

Allison F. Arnold, 151 Clarence, was injured in the right knee and left ankle when a crate toppled from a mobile loader in the hold of the British freighter Loch Garth at Ogden Point.

He is employed by Empire Stevedoring Ltd.

Royal Victoria Yacht Club has re-elected R. Hamilton Smith as commodore for a second term.

Other officers are: Honorary commodore, A. D. Crease; honorary fleet chaplain, Ven. Archdeacon A. De L. Nunn; honorary curator, Dr. R. Scott-McClelland; vice-commodore, F. Piddington; rear-commodore, Dr. W. D. Marshall; fleet surgeon, Dr. H. M. Edmonson; treasurer, V. Gadsby; fleet captain, L. Russell; staff captain, Dr. D. H. Taylor Lee; honorary secretary, Eric Dowell; honorary treasurer, D. Angus. Committee: D. Anstey, T. J. De La Mare, H. Flinn, Dr. R. Johnson, Cdr. J. S. Davis and F. T. Gardiner.

Stanley P. Robertson, 1306 Johnson, was fined $250 in city police court this morning after pleading guilty to a charge of impaired driving. His licence was suspended.

He was arrested after his car mounted the east curb of Douglas Street near Yates about 8 p.m. Sunday.

Jaqueline Hagel, six, 1221 Burnside, was reported in "fair" condition in St. Joseph's Hospital today where she was admitted Oct. 5 after her bicycle collided with a car on Burnside Road.

She was unconscious in the hospital for 10 days with head injuries.

St. Alban's 50 Up Club will meet Thursday at 2:15 p.m. in the Parish Hall, 1468 Ryan St.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Why Wait for Christmas Eve
Shop With Time to Browse

By PENNY SAVER

Only 47 more Penny Saver days till Christmas. I can see it all now—Penny will be scurrying around town to find gift ideas to write about and with so many wonderful things to choose from, it will be Christmas eve and still Penny's shopping won't be done. So take a tip from Penny, if you read about something that might suit someone on your list go shopping and see for yourself if it fills the bill.

If you follow the advice that Penny gives, but doesn't follow, first thing you know all that will remain to be done is stuff the turkey.

For today's item the best buy I saw was a flannelette pyjama set with matching cordona dressing gown. Set is a Christmas special at $3.98. They usually sell for $2.98 each item. To delight two to six year olds, animals dance on a background of pink or blue stripes.

Red jersey leotards combine with flannelette tops to make pyjamas for tots suffering from cold feet. The top has knitted cuffs and a surplus yoke in plain red jersey. Price is $2.98.

For the young men of the house who like to dress like father, there are boys pyjamas styled like Dad's and made from the same grown-up pattern. Sizes two to six can be bought for $1.98 and $2.98.

Pyjama bags are always a favorite at Christmas time and each year a new animal appears on the store counters. New to Penny was Reddy the Fox. There he was with his keen ears sitting up and his furry coat made of bright red orlon pile. Price is $3.98. Pink and black poodles are also available at the same price.

Pyjama bags, fashioned like little girls dressed in cuddly coats, come in pink, mint blue or yellow. With or without long bunny ears price is $4.95.

Phone Penny at 382-3131 if you have a two to six year old on your shopping list. Pyjamas can be fun and particularly if you have a cuddly bag to keep them in.

THE BETTER HALF By Bob Barnes

"They not only aren't mates... They're not even distant relatives!"

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Girls Can Get By With Dab Of Make-Up—But You Can't

Speaking of how a mature woman can be her most attractive self, a great make-up artist said, "A quick dab of powder on the nose and a fast dabbing of lipstick are for teen-agers. A mature woman should devote time to the application and should have all grooming requisites at hand; a magnifying mirror, easy-to-use scissor-handled tweezers for unruly hairs, cotton swabs to soften eye make-up and erase lipstick errors, a lipstick brush and small sponges for face washing.

Here is how a professional make-up artist applies eye make-up. He curves eyebrows outward with the feathery strokes of an eyebrow pencil. He never draws a bold, hard line because that is harsh, artificial, and aging. Eyebrow pencil strokes should be further softened by stroking with a cotton swab.

To emphasize the eyes, use eye shadow. However, it must be done delicately. In applying it, a make-up expert is careful to let none of it gather in the corner of the eye where it can form an unflattering shadow. You can get rid of this with one of the small cotton swabs.

He applies lipstick with a brush. The mouth is given its fullest proportions. He says, "Don't exaggerate the size so the effect becomes grotesque and unnatural." Using a lipstick brush becomes much easier when a woman learns to steady her hand by resting a finger on her chin while wielding the brush. Blot the lip rouge with tissue.

Apply a flattering powder base to the face and neck. A make-up artist will then use a generous dusting of powder to throw a gossamer curtain over tiny imperfections. Be careful not to choose a powder which is too light, he advises, or the effect will be harsh. Afterwards, eliminate excess powder around the base of the nose and the hairline.

This make-up artist feels that by wearing well-chosen colors, by having clothes carefully fitted and devoting a little time to the details of make-up, every mature woman can look her attractive best. By dressing in clothes and make-up suited to her years, every woman can improve her appearance right at her own dressing table, at every age.

Lachasse
of London

The prettiest wrapping of the season is artfully displayed in this charm-packed sheath designed by Lachasse of London. Head and shoulders are framed in the sure flattery of a portrait neckline which crosses low on the throat. A deep back yoke, split into a matching neck-V, arches over the shoulders and arms like a snug little cape. In closing, the smartly wrapped front bodice keeps tab on a wispy waistline with an important pin or a jeweled button. Light gathers ease the skirt's slender lines. A complement to almost any dressy fabric—brocade, matelasse, faille, silk crepe, satin or elegant lightweight wool—this striking style with its '62 sense of shapeliness will highlight the evening landscape wherever it appears. From these corresponding body measurements select the size best for you. Our sizing is comparable to that used for better ready-to-wear.

Sizes	Bust	Waist	Hips	*Length

DEAR ABBY: Somebody cut out your column about the man who drove the jalopy to work every day while his wife drove the good car. Yes, that is our family all right! I leave the GOOD car for my wife because I think she and the children are safer in the "good car."

What's more, I live quite a distance from work and I get better gas mileage from my old car than I do from the new one.

RUPERT.

GORDON.

THOUGHTFUL HUSBAND.

DEAR ABBY: You can tell my nosy neighbors that the reason I leave the "good" car for my wife is because it is bigger, heavier, and in much better condition. If she ever got hit in that car she would have a chance, and the way my wife drives, she needs all the protection she can get.

DRIVES THE OLD ONE.

DEAR ABBY: The man who drives the old wreck to work and leaves the new car for his wife must be off his rocker. I drive the new car because my wife uses a car only to haul a load of kids in their full football regalia, plus assorted athletic gear according to the season. Or else she's got the younger ones in there with fatty apples and ice cream cones. Not to mention those trips to the vets with our dogs. If I let her use the new car for her daily errands, in two weeks it would look worse than the old one.

NO FOOL.

DEAR ABBY: Since my neighbors want to know why I drive the rattle-trap to work and leave the "good" car for my wife, please print this: I am a mechanic (not by trade—old cars happen to be my hobby). I like to fix them

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Is There a Lonely Piano Anywhere Around-About?

By Elizabeth Forbes

I'm looking for a piano! An instrument that at this moment may be covered up and standing in a corner in someone's basement. Or, one that is in a living room, closed, and silent, without touch of understanding fingers.

It doesn't have to be a "grand" piano, in name or in look. All I ask is that it is in reasonably good condition and that it is sturdy and true toned.

This piano is for the Sevenoaks Children's Home on Blenkinsop Road, where young lives are being mended and moulded into health.

Now that the darker days of fall and winter are here, there is need for such an instrument for singing and for musical games of an evening. It is also wanted in order to allow three young people, two little girls and a boy, to realize their dreams of "learning to play tunes."

Sevenoaks is a treatment centre for emotionally disturbed boys and girls between the ages of seven and 12 years. It's a Family and Children's Service project and right now, there are 16 children in the two big houses on the property.

Some are from broken homes. Others were placed there by their parents who have been unable to understand the needs of these youngsters or to help them overcome their handicaps.

Referred to the centre through schools or the public health service, each child has a story of trouble and sadness. One was on the verge of being expelled from a Grade 2 class because of inability to settle at a desk or to sit still for even five minutes at a time; another could find nothing to satisfy the disturbance within other than to set fires in rubbish heaps and in waste-paper baskets.

It's Needed As Healing Therapy

Length of stay is usually about two years. But, in most instances, it is only a matter of days in the homelike surroundings and steady atmosphere of Sevenoaks, and in the understanding care of men and women trained as child care workers, before behaviors change and the long road back to health is commenced.

There is a classroom for the most disturbed youngsters, right in the home, but the majority attend public schools. There is free time after school for play periods. But evenings are spent in organized "fun" that includes games, arts and crafts, woodwork and other things.

This program is designed as healing therapy, individually and in groups.

Here's where that piano comes in.

Music is "wonderful" therapy a staff member says, "even if it is produced by little fingers that do not quite co-ordinate on the keys."

"Last winter, we had to go ahead without a piano but it would be a big help if we could get one this year."

Mrs. Mary Webb, president of the Women's Auxiliary to the Family and Children's Service, has this to say: "If you could see those boys and girls change for the better as they progress in the programs of Sevenoaks Centre, you would realize how much a piano is needed."

If such an instrument can be found the auxiliary is able to pay a nominal amount for it.

But I cannot help thinking that somewhere in this city there is a piano—in someone's basement or standing silent in someone's living room—that might be given to these boys and girls by its owner.

Either way, you could telephone Mrs. Webb, EV 5-2954, or the Centre, GR 7-3911, if you have one you'd like to give or to sell for a small sum.

Engagement has been announced of Rose Marie, daughter of Mr. S. Crossman and the late Mrs. Crossman, to Mr. Douglas Eyle Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Davis, 2870 Scott Street. The wedding will take place on November 10 in Central Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Rev. R. Holmes will officiate. (Photo by Canadian Studios.)

Saanich RCAF Man Married In Two French Ceremonies

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place recently at Marville, Meuse, in France, when LAC William James Scott, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Raines, 1600 Keating Cross Road, Saanich, exchanged vows with Beatrice Pamela Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wright of Belgium and England.

Chaplain G. W. Yates, RCAF, officiated at the ceremony in the Royal Canadian Air Force Protestant chapel of 1 (F) Wing, which was preceded by a French civil ceremony in L'Office De Mairie, Marville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white brocade sheath with net overskirt. A long veil misted from a dainty pillbox hat. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses and sweetpeas.

Bridesmaid, Miss Gloria Matthews, chose a blue chiffon dress and a white rose and net headpiece. Yellow carnations were in her bouquet.

Patricia Lydiard was flower girl in a blue and white frock and flowered headdress. She carried a basket of mixed flowers.

Syed Faheemul Haq was best man. Peter Wright, brother of the bride, ushered guests to their seats.

Telegrams from relatives in Canada and England were read at the reception held in the recreation hall of the RCAF station. Mixed floral bouquets flanked a three-tier wedding cake on the head table. The best man proposed the toast to the bride.

After a honeymoon in Spain and on the French Riviera the newlyweds will live in Belgium.

Women's Editor

OF PERSONAL INTEREST

Co-Hostesses

Mrs. M. Wiggs, Mrs. J. O'Keefe and Mrs. O. Wiggs were co-hostesses at a shower in the latter's home in honor of bride-elect, Miss Darlene Wiggs. Corsages were presented to the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. Lillian Walker. Gifts were in a decorated basket. Also invited were Miss Cheryl Knight, who will be bridesmaid for her cousin; Mrs. R. Davies, Mrs. B. Wiggs, Mrs. E. Bugslag, Mrs. E. McCulloch, Mrs. J. Acres, Mrs. V. Acres, Mrs. M. Knight, Mrs. D. Acres, Mrs. A. Parker, Mrs. M. Inkpen, Mrs. M. Lawson, Mrs. M. Kelly and Mrs. F. Ellis.

Mayor in London

Mayor R. B. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson were recent visitors at British Columbia House in London, England, and signed the register there. Names of other Victorians added to the register in the past week include Mrs. A. W. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Puddicombe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burt and daughter Cheryl, Mr. John W. Meikle, Mrs. J. F. George, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lancry. Also visiting British Columbia House were Mrs. Alan M. Maclean and Miss Georgia Maclean, of Campbell River.

Diamond Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. George of Burton Avenue celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary recently by holding a family dinner in the Dominion Hotel Terra Cotta Room. With them was their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. George of Seattle; a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. (Ella) Tidbury and grandson, Mr. David Tidbury, who returned earlier this month after serving three years with the Royal Canadian Air Force in Zweibrücken, Germany. An "at home" followed in the Tidburys' home on Carlick Street. Mr. and Mrs. George were married at St. Michael's Church in Sittingbourne, Kent, Eng., on October 18, 1902, and came to Victoria in 1911. Mr. George was on the city staff for 32 years. The couple received congratulations from HM Queen Elizabeth II, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Lieutenant Governor George R. Pearkes, Premier W. A. C. Bennett, Mayor R. B. Wilson and many others.

Honored at Shower

Mrs. J. G. Nordal and daughter Victoria, entertained at a shower in their Beach Drive home in honor of bride-elect Miss Linda Caddell. White chrysanthemum corsages were presented to the bride-to-be, her mother, Mrs. J. Caddell and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. W. Sutcliffe. Gifts were in a pink and white decorated umbrella. Yellow daisies and silver candelabra provided decor on refreshment table. Invited guests included Mrs. E. Howard, Mrs. N. Cockburn, Mrs. R. Marquis, Mrs. N. Wilson, Mrs. J. Logie and the Misses Diane Logie, Donna Logie, Robyn Bryson, Wendy Caddell, Judy Towels, Janice Laidlaw, Elva Bryant, Joan Kelway, Yvonne Smethurst, Valerie Smethurst and Judy Lewis.

Women Electors To Meet Again

Second meeting of the newly-formed Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria, will be held in the War Amputations Hall, 1610 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, on Tuesday at 8 p.m. There will be election of officers and discussion of a program. The association was formed primarily to arouse among women an active interest in municipal government; to encourage citizens to realize their responsibilities as voters; to educate and inform citizens concerning civic affairs; to be strictly non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-money making. Any woman in the Greater Victoria area, interested in such a group may attend.

Heirloom Prayer Book Carried

A prayer book, bound in mother-of-pearl, a gift from the groom's grandmother who had carried it on her wedding day, was carried by Valerie Louise East when she exchanged vows with Thomas Duncan Gurton in Our Lady of Grace Church at Ganges, Salt Spring Island.

Large baskets of chrysanthemums decorated the church and ribbons marked the guest pews. Fr. Philip Hanley officiated at the ceremony. Organist was Miss Heather Anderson. Uncle of the bride, Ellis S. Johnson of Port Alberni sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. M. B. East, St. Mary's Lake, Salt Spring Island and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gurton of Sidney, B.C.

VELVET GOWN

The bride's classic floor-length gown of white velvet was fashioned with a straight front panel and soft wide pleats at the back extended to a train. Three rosettes of white velvet added interest at the back waistline. Bodice featured bateau neckline and lily-point sleeves. A white velvet chapel held a shoulder-length embroidered veil that dipped to the waistline at the back. She wore a gold pendant cross, gift of the groom. Pink roses were in the cascade bouquet.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Verlyn and Karen East, sisters of the bride, wore identical ballerina-length gowns of ruby velvet with matching pillbox hats and shoes. They carried bouquets of cream and ruby-toned chrysanthemums and maple leaves.

Kenneth Thorne was best man. Ushers were Robert East-

brother of the bride, and Ronald Trickett.

A reception was held following the wedding in the Legion Hall.

25 Sign Up In Rayner Cadet Corps

Twenty-five new cadets were admitted to the Admiral Rayner Navy League Cadet Corps at recent parade at Rainbow sea cadets barracks.

Oath of loyalty was conducted by Lt. Cmdr. E. S. Cassels, NLC, commanding officer. Certificates were awarded to the new entries by Mrs. Pat Dufour, president of the Victoria branch of the Navy League of Canada.

Earlier in the evening, Mrs. Dufour had officiated as inspecting officer at a ship's company inspection.

Prior to receiving their uniforms and being admitted, the new entries had undergone a six-week basic training course.

It was announced that entry age for Navy League cadets is now 11 years instead of the previous 12 limit.

3,000,000 visitors—almost twice the population of B.C. and that's pretty fantastic," says Recreation Minister Earle Westwood.

Last year's total was 2,300,000.

The 1962 tourists have spent an estimated $140,000,000 to $145,000,000, said Mr. Westwood.

Last year tourists spent $115,000,000.

Mr. Westwood said the Seattle World's Fair had a lot to do with the bonanza B.C. tourist season.

But there were other important factors.

One was an increase in tourist promotion both by the provincial travel bureau and by local community groups.

Another was success of B.C.'s San Francisco office in spreading the word to Californians about B.C.'s attractions.

Mr. Westwood said most tourists spend about $30 a day in B.C.

This, he said, is how the tourist spends his dollar: 28 cents for meals, 22 cents for accommodation, 20 cents in shopping, 19 cents on gas and oil, 8 cents on other car needs and 3 cents on entertainment.

IN EDUCATION Bigger Role Urged For Museums

Museums should form an integral part of the educational systems in Canada, Dr. Loris S. Russell, director of the National Museum of Canada, Ottawa, said here Friday.

The national director, who is in Victoria on a four-day visit, will be guest speaker at a banquet at the Empress Hotel Saturday to commemorate the provincial museum's 75th anniversary.

He addressed the B.C. Historical Association, Victoria branch, Thursday.

Dr. Russell said while there are many aspects of museum work, they should also play a definite part in various educational systems.

MORE USE

"The trend today is make more use of museums in the field of education," he said.

Dr. Russell had nothing but praise for the work being carried out by Dr. Clifford Carl, director of the Provincial Museum, and his staff.

"The B.C. museum is one of the most active in Canada, despite its small staff and restricted quarters," he said.

Reds Name Chief In Treaty States

LONDON (Reuters) — Gen. Pavel Batov has been appointed chief-of-staff of the joint armed forces of the Warsaw treaty countries, the official Soviet news agency Tass announced today.

Gen. Batov formerly was Soviet military commander in Lvov in the western Ukraine.

The Warsaw pact groups Russia and members of the east European Communist bloc nations in a military alliance the Soviets set up in answer to NATO.

Liberals Favor U.S. Cuban Move

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Liberal party of British Columbia backed the United States on its Cuban gamble Saturday but declined to support a proposal for a government-operated lottery for charitable purposes at home.

The Cuban and sweepstakes motions highlighted a sheaf of resolutions which the Liberals, at their one-day annual convention in nearby Burnaby failed to get through completely.

Only four of the 193 voting delegates voted against the resolution urging the federal government to "affirm our unequivocal support" for the U.S. "with respect to her action against Soviet nuclear capability in Cuba."

The resolution also supported the United Nations and urged it to further "efforts to find the path to peace and security through the present crisis."

The sweepstakes resolution came before the convention under a cloud as the chairman stated it "does not have the support of the resolutions committee" and recommended its defeat.

George Howarth of Chilliwack, speaking to his resolution, said unofficial figures showed that $18,000,000 a year leaves Canada in the Jamaican sweepstakes alone.

"There are 27 others, including the Irish."

"Let's not be hypocrites. Let's give the working man what he wants."

NANAIMO FERRY

Also approved was a motion calling for the party to undertake to "explore all means whereby the downtown Nanaimo to downtown Vancouver and Westview to Comox ferry services be re-established."

A resolution saying "the Indians of Canada have been deprived of certain fundamental rights" was passed. It urged that they be given "full equality" without loss of "aboriginal, hereditary and usufructuary rights."

New president of the party in B.C. is Bill Gilmour, 41.

ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions to select to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second questioner a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Marsha Gonzales, age 12, of Aushbach, Germany, for her question:

Have we proof that Antarctica was once warm?

The coldest place on earth is Antarctica, the frozen ice cap which sits upon the globe's South Pole. Some of the massive glaciers are a mile, some two miles and some three miles thick, and in some places their gigantic weight has pressed down the land to be low sea level. But the layers of rocks below the ice tell us that this frigid region once enjoyed a temperate climate.

Captain Robert Scott led a team of explorers into the frigid Antarctic in 1901 and brought back a sample of coal bearing rock. This amazing item remained a mystery until the world's ice-box was given a more thorough examination during the IGY. Many more coal deposits have been found, some of them 13 feet thick.

The rocky layers of the earth's crust are like the pages of a diary and some of them date back more than 2,000 million years. Geologists can read these rocky pages and tell how they were formed. Specimens of fossil plants and animals are pressed between the diary pages. Science can date them and tell how far back in the past they lived.

Here and there, mountain ridges and ragged cliffs poke layers of bare rock above the white wilderness of Antarctica. In a few places, this rock strata has been probed and scientists have turned back the diary pages 1,500 million years. The long story tells of mountains rising and falling, of seas flooding the land, of periods of volcanic activity and, finally, the coming of the icy climate which covered the south polar area with its massive glaciers.

In rocks formed 350 million years ago there are fossil brachiopods and other simple animals and plants. These life forms have been found in rocks of this age over most of the earth.

Life Delayed by Ice Age

But in Antarctica, the simple beginnings of life were delayed by a long Ice Age. In the rest of the world, life continued to develop and the Age of Reptiles came and went. Finally the icy grip was lifted from Antarctica and plant life began to thrive. They left their fossil remains in the rocky pages formed 200 to 250 million years ago. Fossil leaves 12 inches long, seeds, pollen and petrified trees have been found. These fossils and the layers of black coal tell us that Antarctica was once lush with rich forests. The process of life in Antarctica was halted again about a million years ago. The Ice Ages which came to the northern regions formed the massive glaciers which still form the south polar ice cap. Most of the diary of Antarctica is buried under a mile or more of ice and still unexplored. So far, we have only a sketchy story taken from a few outcroppings of bare rock. Fossil plants and the coal prove that the south pole was not always cold.

NEW YORK—Janet Leigh's very proudly showing off her new good-looking husband, stockbroker Bob Brandt, to girl friends while she's here for her new picture, "Manhattan Candidate." She denies she married a non-actor just because she's given up on movie guys. Janet does get a little forgetful about the bridegroom at times. She told a couple of girl callers "Just wait in the next room there"—and they walked in to encounter her husband coming out of the shower clad in a towel.

A JFK impersonator, clever comedian Vaughn Meader, found that audiences don't mind the Kennedy mimicry despite the Cuban crisis. Opening at the Blue Angel, he did his usual "JFK press conference." One customer called out, "What about those ships?" Meader said, "I covered that in my speech Monday"—and the audience applauded. Later Meader said, "Who do they want me to impersonate—Alf Landon?"

Comic Dick Gregory slashed all references to JFK, Khrushchev, even Mississippi, from his Winter Garden act, even a line that he'd vote for JFK "because he's young enough to get drafted himself."

Liz Taylor and Richard Burton wound up their "Cleopatra" dubbing in Paris last week—look out, World, for Liz is free to come to N.Y., "on business," though maybe she will be scared off by Eddie Fisher's friendship with Ann-Margret, who, however, is going back to Hollywood.

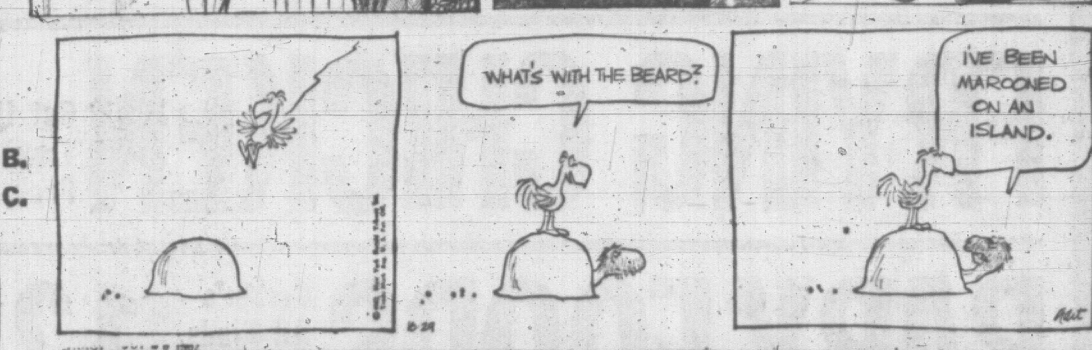

Groucho Marx went down to the Stock Exchange visitors' gallery recently—and shocked everybody by singing a very sad song. Told he couldn't do that, Groucho said, "I lost a bundle here—and I'll cry here if I want to."

EARL'S PEARLS—Some girls have the kind of figure that gets a once-over twice. TODAY'S BEST LAUGH—A color TV set, claims Leonard J. Levinson, is a wonderful gadget that allows you to see a 15-year-old musical film for only $500.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Bob Belvin complained about his bad luck in the stock market: "If I invested in General Motors, wagon trains would come back."

Danny Thomas, reporting that Los Angeles has more psychiatrists than plumbers, says one street has so many it's called "the mental block." That's earl, brother.

Union Curbs Requested In CMA Brief

B.C. manufacturers last week asked the provincial government for a new law banning union membership as a condition of employment.

In a brief to the cabinet the B.C. division of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association asked for a number of new labor laws.

At present the Labor Relations Act grants the right of any employee to belong to a union.

The CMA request would end closed shops and wipe out contracts where an employer agrees a certain percentage of employees must be union men.

ONLY B.C.

No other province in Canada has this type of prohibitive legislation.

The CMA also asked for a law ensuring that no person should lose his job or be ineligible for a job because he was denied union membership.

It also asked that employees be given the right to withdraw from a union within a given period in a contract without losing their job.

Another request was an amendment to checkoff laws allowing making the checkoff voluntary and revocable by an employee.

NO WEAKENING

"Not a single one of the preceding suggestions will in any way weaken unions in pursuance of their legitimate objective," said the CMA.

"Only the coercive aspects of unionism would be cured—those manifestations of union conduct which are inconsistent with our society's concepts of democracy and freedom."

"An acceptance by unions of such responsibilities, far from weakening them, would enable them truly to fulfill their aspirations as an integral part of our free society."

Negotiation Plea Sent By City VOW

Victoria Committee of the Voice of Women has wired Prime Minister Diefenbaker urging "a period of negotiation" in the Cuban crisis.

The telegram, signed by Mrs. Ena McMordie, president, read:

"The Victoria Committee, Voice of Women, feel it is imperative that a period for negotiation in the Cuban crisis, such as that proposed by 45 neutral powers, be effected, and would urge the Canadian government to lend this and similar resolutions every support."

In a statement to the Victoria Daily Times, Mrs. McMordie said:

"Surely we are not the only women in B.C. who are deeply concerned about danger in a nuclear war. We urge all women to contact the defence minister and prime minister requesting that every attempt be made to settle differences by international negotiation rather than resort to acts of aggression."

Mrs. McMordie added: "In a nuclear war our children, as well as Russian and Cuban children, will be victims. Can you honestly say that a war which leaves children of any nation homeless and starving is justifiable?"

"This is a cause for women to unite against the killing and maiming of children."

Many Firms Seek Information On Peace Dam

More than 30 North American firms have asked B.C. Hydro for documents containing preliminary information concerning construction of Portage Mountain Dam at the Peace River project, the power authority said Saturday.

Additional requests are expected from European firms during the coming week in response to advertisements placed around the world.

Requests received to date have come from points as far apart as Prince George, Montreal and Dallas, Tex.

Imitation Eskimo Art Withdrawn

TORONTO (CP)—A Toronto trading stamp company has withdrawn imitation of an Eskimo carving from its line of premiums at the request of Northern Affairs Minister Dinsdale.

Mr. Dinsdale told Gold Bond Company Limited in a letter that mass marketing of Eskimo art imitations might have a serious effect on both the value of the art and the financial situation of the Eskimos who produce it.

The imitations were offered as premiums in the company's new catalogue. The company said none had yet been exchanged.

What The Marriage Manuals DON'T Say

A forthright article in November Reader's Digest reveals that in all the discussion of marriage and sex some fundamental facts about the relationship between men and women are being overlooked. ### DOUGLAS:

UN Should Oversee Withdrawal

CALGARY (CP)—The United Nations should see that Premier Khrushchev's proposal for joint withdrawal of missiles from Cuba and Turkey is carried out, T. C. Douglas said Sunday.

The national New Democratic Party leader said President Kennedy would have been justified in enforcing a blockade of Cuba if "there were some grounds for immediate action. But so far there is no such justification."

Mr. Douglas said the world situation is so serious that all crises should be handled by an international authority.

"The Russians and Americans should get out of Cuba and let an international police force handle the problem," he said in an interview here.

Speaking at Lethbridge Saturday night, Mr. Douglas said no nation has the right to take unilateral action which endangers the peace of the world such as the United States did in establishing its Cuba quarantine.

He told 300 persons at a party dinner the only way to maintain a peace is through the United Nations and adherence to international law.

He also criticized the U.S. for not consulting Canada before it undertook its action against Cuba. And he suggested the U.S. should have referred the construction of missile bases in Cuba to the UN Security Council.

Highway Crashes Claim 29 Lives

By The Canadian Press
Road accidents claimed 29 lives in Canada during the weekend, 13 of them in Quebec.

Six persons were killed on the roads in Ontario, four in Alberta, three in British Columbia, and one each in Nova Scotia, Manitoba and Saskatchewan.

Psoriasis New "Break Through"

A new lotion, now available in Canadian drug stores, shows great promise as a palliative for the skin condition known as psoriasis. The ingredients, among which is 5-Glyoxydiureid and a Picis Carbonis solution have been brought together in a stainless, pleasant to use, economical lotion. It is marketed under the trade name of Psorantyl. Literature to physicians on request.

Our exclusive and improved deep dip process makes the new 1963 Rambler Classic the world's most completely rustproofed car

That's quite a claim—the world's most completely rustproofed car. But Rambler is perfectly justified in making it. No other automotive manufacturer in the world is so thorough. Our 'Deep Dip' rustproofing process is the most extensive in the industry. And this year, with the introduction of 'Uniside', an exclusive new way of building cars, we have increased the amount of galvanized metal on the car by seven times!

Our exclusive 'Deep Dip' method of rustproofing was developed at the Rambler plant in Brampton, Ontario. It is specifically designed to fight the rigours of Canadian weather and driving conditions. This is what we do: The entire car body is immersed completely into six separate baths which clean, scour and seal the surface of the steel.

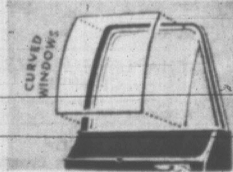

After that the car is again dipped to the roofline in a rustproofing primer paint which fills every corner of the car body. In this way, there is not one area of surface of the car which has not been protected. There's no casual spraying in this process that might miss vital areas and leave them exposed.

So you see, it's no idle boast when we claim that we have the world's most completely rustproofed car. Why do we go to so much trouble? Because it's part of our firm policy of providing 'maximum usefulness to the user'. Visit your Rambler Dealer soon, and test drive the new 1963 Rambler Classic and discover how much this policy means to your driving pleasure and convenience.

Also on display you'll see the new Rambler American—the lowest priced Canadian built car.

Nehru Rejects Mediation

NEW DELHI — Prime Minister Nehru asked the United States for aid today in India's struggle with Communist China in which the total of Indian dead and missing is officially set at 2,000 to 2,500 so far.

An Indian government spokesman said the Chinese are believed to have suffered much heavier casualties in driving into northeastern and northwestern India.

The spokesman reported the loss of Demchok in southern Ladakh where the Chinese had attacked last Saturday.

Nehru asked U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith for the weapons. A U.S. embassy spokesman said Galbraith indicated they are coming.

WON'T BE PUSHED

An external affairs ministry spokesman said "no self-respecting country, and certainly not India with her love of freedom, can submit to Chinese aggression whatever may be the consequences nor can India allow China's occupation of Indian territory to be used as a bargaining counter for dictating to India a settlement of differences regarding the boundary on China."

The spokesman reiterated that the Chinese must withdraw "at least to where they were prior to Sept. 8 when the intrusion into northeast began."

Meanwhile, Indian Army Chief of Staff Gen. P. N. Thapar announced today that invading Communist Chinese forces are "being held on all fronts." The announcement was contained in a special order of the day.

A military spokesman said there was only a sporadic exchange of fire in the northeast but Demchok and nearby Jara Pass were abandoned in Ladakh.

RECEIVE BRITISH ARMS

The appeal to the United States for weapons followed receipt here of two plane loads of British arms and ammunition.

Nehru sought help as a major battle loomed for a vital 2½-mile Himalayan pass on the route to India's densely populated Assam Plains.

The Indian army was rushing reinforcements to the Se Pass to try to stem the advance of at least one 10,000-man Communist Chinese division striking forward from the key northeast border town of Towang which fell last week.

U.S. infantry weapons for the Indian defenders in the Himalayas may begin arriving by air by the end of this week, it was understood.

The terms on which the weapons will be supplied were left open, a U.S. embassy spokesman said. In the past India has insisted on paying for weapons but now there is no cash and a desperate need for arms.

A small shipment of British weapons already has arrived and France and Canada also

STILL PRESIDENT

De Gaulle Wins 'Prestige Test'

PARIS (Reuters)—Charles de Gaulle remained France's president today after voters approved his presidential referendum with a three-to-two majority and gave the imperious leader a vote of confidence in the process.

The national referendum Sunday brought 12,800,000 yes votes and 7,900,000 no votes—a 61.76 per cent affirmative ballot.

However, almost a quarter of the eligible voters stayed away from the polls.

By de Gaulle's own calculations, a figure above 60 per cent meant a "success," 65 per cent a "triumph." He had threatened to retire if the majority had been "mediocre or problematical."

The referendum was officially to give the voters a chance to decide on de Gaulle's proposal that future presidents be elected by popular vote, instead of by an electoral college.

But faced with the opposition of almost every political party in France—partly because the referendum meant changing the constitution without the approval of the National Assembly—de Gaulle also made the vote a test of his prestige with the French people.

With the referendum over, a new political campaign began for the election next month of a new National Assembly.

De Gaulle dissolved the assembly earlier this month when it brought down Premier Georges Pompidou's government in a vote of confidence over the referendum proposal.

The fight is expected to be bitter since many politicians urged a no vote in the referendum and must face constituencies which voted solidly for de Gaulle.

The approval votes totalled 45.83 per cent of the electorate, those against 28.38 per cent and 22.75 per cent abstained.

YEMEN CHIEF LOSES HEAD IN SKIRMISH

ADEN (Reuters)—The head of a tribal chieftain from northern Yemen has been displayed outside the main gate of San'a, the Yemen capital's radio said today.

The chieftain was an important member of the Jahn tribe, which has been fighting against the new republican regime in the northeast part of this Red Sea kingdom. He was reported to have been killed in a skirmish with republican troops in the Kholan region between San'a and the British-protected state of Beihan.

Kennedy Names Cuba 'Team'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy set up a special three-man committee today to handle negotiations looking toward an end to the Cuban crisis following Soviet Premier Khrushchev's agreement to pull missile bases out of Cuba.

Kennedy designated as chairman of the group John J. McCloy, whom he previously had appointed special assistant to United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson during the period of the Cuban emergency.

The other members are State Undersecretary George W. Ball and Deputy Defence Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatrick.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, described the group as "a co-ordinating committee to give full time and attention to the matters involved in the conclusion of the Cuban crisis."

Salinger said the group would report directly to the president but act under the supervision of State Secretary Rusk, Defence Secretary McNamara, and Stevenson.

The press secretary said the group would be concerned with "implementing the letters of President Kennedy, and Premier Khrushchev."

SENT EMISSARY

Khrushchev has dispatched Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov to the United Nations in New York to work with Acting Secretary-General U Thant in dealing with the many details involved in a settlement.

Salinger said he had no information as to whether McCloy, Ball and Gilpatrick would accompany U Thant to Havana Tuesday to meet with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and devise methods of conforming that the Russians' offensive weapons are removed.

Washington policymakers held hope that a breakthrough has

Venezuela Oil Fields Sabotaged

CARACAS (AP)—The Maracaibo oil fields were made a military zone today as hundreds of American and Venezuelan technicians worked to repair damage caused by saboteurs which knocked out a sixth of Venezuela's oil production.

The interior ministry said two captured saboteurs were Venezuelan Communists apparently acting on orders from Cuba. U.S. diplomats spread word among Latin American governments to be wary of an expected continent-wide sabotage campaign by followers of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Some authoritative sources in Washington said Cuban Premier Fidel Castro gave the signal for general terrorist action in Latin America with the American-operated oil fields in Venezuela a prime target.

Saboteurs dynamited four power stations of the Creole Petroleum Corporation Sunday at Lake Maracaibo, which holds beneath its waters, one of the world's richest oil stores.

A few hours earlier President Romulo Betancourt ordered mobilization of the armed forces to counter what he called the threat to Venezuela of "the reservoir of Soviet nuclear rockets in Cuba."

Betancourt's government blamed the oil field bombing on

EXPERT ANALYZES MANAGEMENT'S FLAWS, VIRTUES

How to Put Boss Foot Forward

TORONTO (CP)—About 300 executives shuffled uneasily as Dr. Margaret Nix, associate professor at McGill university's department of health and social medicine, gave them an expert's insight into the characters of most "bosses."

Addressing the 18th annual conference of the Industrial Management Clubs of Canada, Dr. Nix puts employees into four categories:

The tyrannical boss: He tops the "hate" list, his bite is worse than his bark, he's indirectly responsible for child-beating by resentful fathers and his staff is renowned for its buck-passing, bootlicking and boss-fawning.

The benevolent dictator: He's a "one big happy family" type who trades his benevolence for employee loyalty.

but his employees soon see through him. Seldom harsh, his paternal heart is centered on himself and expressed by "you've pleased me" or "I am displeased."

The "laissez-faire" boss: He is afraid of his staff, snails at them to leave him alone

'NO DEALS'

U.S. Won't Quit Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—A state department spokesman, rebutting a Cuban demand for U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo, said today that United States treaty rights to the big naval base are clear, and "our position there remains unchanged."

Privately, officials said there are "no deals" involved in any way in the U.S.-Soviet agreement for withdrawal of Russian nuclear missiles from Soviet bases in Cuba.

The Guantanamo issue was raised by Premier Fidel Castro Sunday when he made a series of demands on the U.S., beginning with withdrawal from the big naval base.

They were:

1. Lifting the U.S. economic boycott of Cuba.

2. And end to all "subversive activities, organization of mercenary invaders and infiltration of spies and saboteurs" from U.S. territory.

3. Ending of "pirate attacks" from U.S. and Puerto Rican bases.

4. No more violations of Cuban waters and air space by U.S. planes and ships.

5. Withdrawal from the Guantanamo base.

Castro said Kennedy's "guarantees against an aggression on Cuba... will not exist unless, in addition to the elimination of the naval blockade, (these) measures are adopted."

By a treaty signed early this century, the United States is entitled to stay in Guantanamo as long as it desires on payment of a yearly rental fee of $2,000.

Air Cameras Stand Watch

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. reconnaissance planes focused their cameras on Cuba today in search of evidence that the Russians are starting to dismantle their missile bases there.

The U.S. blockade fleet remained on guard in the Atlantic, but no Russian ships were reported within two or three days steaming time of the U.S. "quarantine" line thrown up nearly a week ago.

Informed officials said they don't expect to see any substantial reduction in land, sea and air preparations at least until the United States is convinced the missile threat from Cuba is removed.

because he's afraid they'll realize how inefficient he is and delegates all responsibility to hirelings. Staff morale and productivity is usually at an all-time low.

HAND GRENADE TERRORIZES SUBWAYITES

NEW YORK (AP)—A man brandishing a hand grenade terrorized subway passengers and gave police a wild chase across platforms and through tunnels for 40 minutes Sunday before he was felled by police bullets.

A patrolman donned a bullet-proof suit to rush the grenade-wielder and disarm him.

The man repeatedly threatened to pull the pin of the grenade and throw it. But inspection later showed it to be harmless.

The man, tentatively identified as Jerry Hartman, 21, a Negro, was hit by five bullets.

'Disaster Too Close' — John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Reaction here to the thaw in the Cuban crisis struck the same note exhibited in other world capitals: relief mingled with caution from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down.

"Mankind will breathe more hopefully," he said in a statement Sunday. "The introduction of missiles into the Western Hemisphere has brought the world too close to disaster for anyone to indulge either self-congratulations or complacency at this time."

"Keep our relief, as we should keep our fears, in perspective," said Liberal Leader Pearson.

Vistas for new opportunities for negotiation spring from this first step in the right direction," said House Leader H. W. Herdridge of the New Democratic Party.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson was at his home in Red Deer, Alta.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Diefenbaker confessed to 200 persons at a church cornerstone-laying ceremony that he had some difficulty keeping abreast of the Cuban developments.

A Diefenbaker statement later said there is an "early prospect that the threat to the Western Hemisphere from long-range Soviet missiles in Cuba will be removed."

This had been brought about by "high degree of unity, understanding and co-operation among the Western Allies." In this the Canadian government has played its full part.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the UN deserves special praise for its labors.

"The letters that have been exchanged indicate there is a fair chance."

TRIES TO ALLAY FEARS

Castro's initial reaction last week to the idea of UN inspectors being sent to Cuba was violently in the negative and his letter to Thant Saturday—extending the invitation for a visit—stressed the sanctity of Cuba's sovereignty.

Seeking to allay Castro's fears on the sovereignty issue, Thant said in his reply Sunday:

Thant Moves In Tuesday

By JOSEPH MacSWEENEY

UNITED NATIONS (CP) Acting Secretary-General U Thant, the man in the middle in the Cuban crisis, today prepared for a peace-keeping mission to Havana with the apparent blessings of Moscow and Washington.

Thant Sunday accepted an invitation from Premier Fidel Castro to visit Cuba after Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised President Kennedy of the United States he would remove Russian bases from the Caribbean island under United Nations verification.

A UN spokesman said Thant will leave Tuesday.

Khrushchev made his promise on the basis of a Kennedy offer of a guarantee against an invasion of Cuba, and an end to the United States arms blockade against Cuba if the Soviet Union pulled back its offensive weapons.

The Khrushchev-Kennedy exchange of letters resulted in a distinct—if still uneasy—lessening of tensions at UN headquarters where chilling talk of thermonuclear war kept diplomats jittery most of last week.

But diplomats stressed the situation still is delicate and that words in big-power diplomacy are not always what they seem, particularly when security and prestige are deeply involved.

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—

The government decided today to provide seven Swedish officers for a United Nations observer group in Cuba. The decision was reached after government leaders were summoned to consider a request for officers from UN Acting Secretary-General U Thant.

External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada, who arrived Sunday night from Ottawa for a two-day stay at the UN.

"There is no way we can tell for sure," he added. "But if the Soviet proposal is carried out, if they start work on removing the Cuban bases, and start taking their missiles back to Russia, there seems to be a reasonable chance of getting a solution."

"The letters that have been exchanged indicate there is a fair chance."

Statistics Tossed Out Window

NEW YORK (AP)—Business judgments suddenly depend less on statistics and economic indicators than they do on diplomats and sea captains.

The U.S. naval blockade of Cuba and the international tensions it brought now stand as the prime factors in trying to determine which way business is going.

Talk of inflation or deflation, tax cuts or tax increases, boom or bust—all pivoted on the possibility of military encounters.

With the crisis still fresh, businessmen have had little time to act outwardly on it, however. Few even cared to guess as to what it will mean.

Only the stock market, which must try to anticipate important changes, reacted immediately. And the market's see-saw action indicated that even Wall Streeters had trouble agreeing on what is coming.

The possibility of all-out war was generally ignored if only because few businessmen saw any way to base plans on such a catastrophe.

WAR ISSUES UP

But defence issues as rails, aerospace, and steel shot upward while "peace stocks" such as retail stores went down sharply. International oils, especially those with Middle East links, also suffered at one point.

Other markets, during the high tension Tuesday, reflected a similar mood. Foreign stock exchanges went lower. Commodity exchanges here and abroad vaulted on guesses that prices of food and materials would increase in the future. Gold bullion was in heavy demand from people preferring to hold it rather than paper money of securities.

When tension eased, all these extreme positions began moderating.

Many members of the National Association of Business Economists said that, the Cuban situation aside, they expect a mild and brief recession next year. But their president, William Butler of New York's Chase Manhattan Bank, said Cuba might well cancel that recession even if the situation does not become more acute.

CUTS DIVIDEND

Meanwhile, Bethlehem Steel, the No. 2 producer in the U.S., didn't surprise many with its decision to cut the quarterly dividend from the regular 60 cents to 37½ cents. The long steel slump was well known and earlier Bethlehem earnings revealed the pressure. There is speculation that U.S. Steel will follow suit when its directors meet next Tuesday.

Steel production, meanwhile, sagged again, adding to general discouragement.

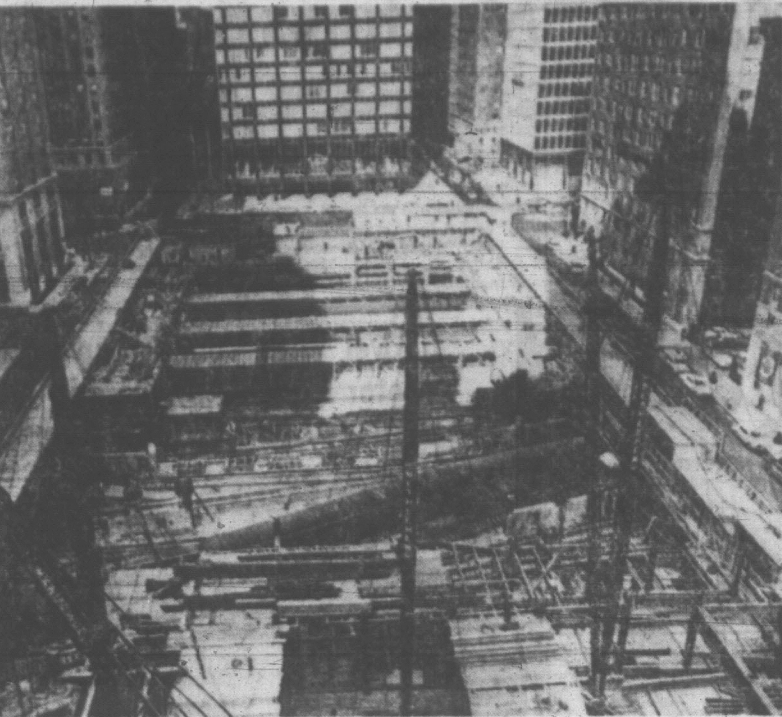

The automobile industry continued to be the bright spot of the economy, with the month likely to set an all-time record for sales of domestic and foreign cars. Ford announced a 21-per-cent jump in profits for the first nine months and Chrysler, for the same period, earned $15,000,000 compared with a loss of $20,500,000 in the corresponding period of 1961.

Canadian Breweries Forms New Division

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian Breweries Ltd. has announced it has formed a new division to accelerate the continuing expansion of the company outside Canada.

The new division, to be called the International Division, will seek and develop opportunities for the construction and operation of breweries throughout the world.

Richard R. Smith, formerly executive vice-president of Canadian Breweries (Quebec) Ltd., is director of the new division.

BUSINESS VIEWS

Tighter Regulation Needed On Trading by 'Insiders'

By GORDON BELL
Times Business Editor

Rumor that "insiders" made a killing in Canadian Oil Companies Ltd. stock prior to the final takeover bid by Shell Investments Ltd. has been prevalent in financial circles for weeks.

The rumor was so widespread, in fact, that it led to an investigation by the Ontario Securities Commission which has filed a report with the province's attorney-general.

Whatever the results of the investigation, the incident points up once again the need for closer regulation in this country of the stock trading activities of corporate insiders.

In the U.S., Securities and Exchange Commission regulations make any breach of fiduciary responsibility through trading in company shares by company officers, directors or large shareholders very difficult, if not impossible.

In Canada, as any investor dealer will admit, the practice of insiders taking profits at the expense of outside shareholders is by no means rare.

The SEC provides that insiders—officers, directors or shareholders controlling 10 per cent of more of a company's shares—must disclose any and all of their trading transactions.

Any profits they make through trading over a six-month period can be reclaimed by the company concerned.

In addition, SEC regulations prohibit insiders from using their prior knowledge of company activities to buy shares from unknown shareholders who have not yet been informed of latest company developments or prospects.

PLUG LOOPHOLES

Other regulations plug possible loopholes whereby an insider might attempt to act through another company or person to profit in trading transactions involving his company's shares.

The suspicion of insider trading in the Canadian Oil-Shell Investments deal rises from the fact that in the three days before the successful Shell offer was announced, Canadian Oil shares rose $5.50 in heavy trading. On one of those days the volume reached 122,000 shares, and the value of this turnover was the highest ever recorded at Toronto for one company.

While it is possible, of course, that there was an unwitting leak of information about the Shell offer and that the undoubted trading profits were taken by other than those who qualify as insiders, the existence of a disclosure law would remove all doubts.

There would then be no need for an investigation and no cause for suspicion.

Difficulty in putting SEC-type regulations into force in Canada is that there is no national regulatory body for the investment business and no constitutional provision for the creation of one.

The stock exchange could require more complete information on insider trading out they generally tend to back away from increasing the complexity of existing listing regulations.

But one thing seems certain. Until the various stock exchanges, provincial regulatory bodies and investment dealers' organizations get together and work out some method of preventing insiders from taking unwarranted profits, too many Canadian investors will continue to shy away from equities and continue to sock away their savings in bonds, mortgages or bank accounts.

There is a continual cry for more Canadian investment in ownership of Canadian companies, but it won't come so long as there is a suspicion that the "big boys" get all the gravy.

This week's somewhat higher interest rate on Canadian treasury bills—up to 4.27 per cent from last week's 4.22 per cent on the three-month issue—has delayed hope for a further decline in the bank rate.

However, financial circles still believe it is a good bet that the bank rate will come down to 4½ per cent from the present 5 per cent within a matter of weeks.

This week's treasury bill rate is still about the level of mid-June, in contrast to the high levels following the announcement June 24 of emergency financial measures.

BUT BIG BANGS CAN STILL COM E IN SMALL PACKAGES

Halloween's Heavy Artillery Muffled by Headquarters

By ARTHUR MAYSE

Sorry, lads and dads, but if you want to celebrate Halloween with bombs longer than two inches, better hustle!

Ottawa, the old spoilsport, this year has banned heavier ammunition in the interests of safety. The only four-inch bombs on sale in Victoria are stock left over from 1961 and the supply is melting like a snowball down where the Primrose isn't just reserved for All Hallow's Eve.

For a number of years now, Federal Mines and Technical Surveys in co-operation with the RCMP has been saving fingers, eyes and noses by reducing the potency of our holiday explosives.

OUTLAWED

Gone is the cannon cracker, fatter than a stick of dynamite and with a blast only less window-rattling. Sky rockets. They've been outlawed—officially, at least—for the past 10 years.

Each shipment of Chinese and domestic fireworks is tested by government inspectors armed with detailed and even more stringent specification lists. Too much whoomp, and out goes that particular item.

Take heart, though. Size of a cracker, according to an expert in the business is only one factor in producing a good loud bang. Of at least equal importance is the way the black powder charge is compounded, and the tightness with which it is sealed in its gay red cylinder.

CHIEF IMPORTER

Flanked by shelves laden with a highly-combustible cargo, Jack Lee, manager of Morley Co., and lieutenant-governor of Vancouver Island Kiwanis Clubs, discoursed on fireworks with authority gained from many years as chief Victoria importer.

Eastern Canada supplies Roman candles and related dispensers of stars, colored balls and sparkle-showers, but bombs, lady fingers and the red inch-and-three-quarters cracker—which remains the prime favorite come from Hong Kong.

"The larger pieces are made in factories," Mr. Lee said, "but the work is almost all hand labor, and a lot of the crackers are turned-out by sampan families—boat-dwellers, that is—from materials supplied by a company. Packing has changed a little, but the crackers haven't. In size, shape and color, they go back as far as gunpowder... and we invented that."

FATHER BUYS

Fathers buy most of the fireworks sold in Mr. Lee's

Fisgard Street store, spending at the rate of about $2.50 per child. The occasional plunger, especially if this is an only child, will put down $6 or $7.

Chinese-Canadian children enjoy their Halloween crackers, too, and Chinese fathers, said Mr. Lee, have just as much trouble keeping the kids from setting 'em off in advance of spook-night.

Communal firework sprees, often in the form of a street, district or fire department party, have helped tame Halloween, and Mr. Lee agrees emphatically that the change is all for the good. There's no jubilation when someone gets hurt, and in China, crackers are associated with jubilation. "The Chinese don't light fireworks just to scare off evil spirits as you may have heard," Jack Lee explained. "It's also to create a festive spirit. Why, in a parade, a popping of crackers has the effect of a hundred kettledrums."

On the day Japan capitulated, he remembers, the crackers popped on Fisgard Street in an hour-long volley. His own preference?

"Well," said Mr. Lee, Victoria-born UBC graduate, "What I like is to touch off a string of lady fingers and listen to them crackle!"

PARTIES PLANNED

Supervised Halloween parties will be held through-out Greater Victoria Wednesday night.

Oak Bay, Esquimalt, Central Saanich, Langford, Colwood and Metchosin will give their usual bonfire parties, featuring costume competitions, with prizes, refreshments and fireworks.

Oak Bay Kiwanis Club and municipal firemen will stage a bonfire and costume party in the fire hall starting at 6:30 p.m.

Central Saanich Community Club will launch its bonfire party in the agricultural hall at 8 p.m.

Langford volunteer firemen, the women's auxiliary and PTA members will join forces to present a Halloween party at 6:30 p.m.

Esquimalt Lions Club will have fireworks, bonfires, candy and treats for the youngsters at Bullen Park and the Little League hall park on Colville Road at 6:30 p.m.

Sidney fire department is also planning a party. Stan Hiscock, of Luxton Colwood fire department will hold a party at the fire hall at 7 p.m.

Community Association said his group will not be staging a party this year, as the area is "pretty well covered" by parties given by Langford and Metchosin firemen.

'Don't Believe In Pacifism'—Moderator

In a world torn by tension and strife, Christian churches must stand firmly behind the "international law of justice," says Very Rev. Ross K. Cameron, MA, DD, moderator of the general assembly of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

"I do not believe in pacifism," said Dr. Cameron in an interview. "I believe a good churchman must be loyal to his country, but he must also be loyal to the principles of truth and justice. Happily there is no conflict between these principles and our loyalty to Canada and Britain."

Dr. Cameron came to Victoria to visit the British Columbia synod of the Presbyterian Church and he preached in St. Andrew's Church Sunday morning. The service was conducted by the minister, Rev. Dr. J. L. W. McLean, with whom Dr. Cameron graduated from Knox Theological College in 1930.

NOT JUSTIFIED

Asked if he saw any conflict between patriotic loyalty and the Sermon on the Mount (which has been much quoted by pacifists) Dr. Cameron said:

"The Sermon on the Mount was the statement of an ideal of human brotherhood which has not yet been reached. It does not justify pacifism under present conditions."

Late Model Car Sped From Scene Of Nanaimo Fire

A late-model, black car was seen racing away just as a $300,000 conflagration began early Friday at the S. Madill Ltd. machinery works in Nanaimo.

The fire was spotted by William Lehman, 821 Douglas Road, as he drove past in his car at about 1 a.m. When he stopped to see the blaze he saw the car come out of the Madill lot at high speed.

The driver of the mystery car did not give the alarm about the fire. The first fire department heard of the outbreak was from Mr. Lehman.

Fire broke out at the waterfront end of the shed near the machine shop, where a self-propelled log loader of a new design is being developed.

It appears there will not be a long lay-off for the 60 workers whose jobs are affected by the fire. New equipment can be obtained quickly and will enable production to be resumed shortly.

Clarification 'In Few Days' On Car Parks

City parking committee chairman Ald. Michael Griffin today indicated that the civic parking garage situation should be clarified in the next few days.

He said counter-offers will be made to claims for compensation by former owners and tenants on the View Street site now under construction.

If the city's counter-offers are not accepted, the disputes likely will be settled by arbitration.

Similarly, he said negotiations to acquire the second garage site on lower Yates is proceeding well now and "we should see this cleared up in the next few days."

MONTE ROBERTS

Gather 'round, constituents, and I'll tell you where I have not been during the past week.

I have not been to San Francisco, that's where I have not been.

I failed to go to San Francisco due to the World Crisis (which is like the World Series, except in the World Series, you know who wins).

Not only did the World Crisis prevent me from going to San Francisco, it cost me the cash sum of one dollar and fifty cents, made up of six equal payments of twenty-five cents per.

This just goes to show that no individual, anywhere, can any longer stand aloof from a World Crisis.

We are all in the Front Line this time, and we all have to pay.

In my case, one dollar and fifty cents. Cash.

No doubt, constituents, you can hardly wait for details of how I failed to go to San Francisco.

Well, I had a few days-off coming to me (days off are not to be confused with vacation, holiday, or leave, but that's another story, as the high-rise architect said to the zoning committee).

So I worked up a little plan to hitch-hike a ride to San Francisco and back, using various forms of military transport which were going and coming in that direction in the course of the normal execution of duty.

This little plan was justified by my intention to write several yards of deathless prose about military and naval matters. Although said writing would not exactly have a negative effect on my attendance at a meeting between the San Francisco and Los Angeles representatives in the National Football League.

(In case you think I'm being a little vague, and talking through my hat, it is because I cannot reveal too many details for fear of betraying military secrets).

So what happened? The World Crisis happened, and chances of the kind of hitch-hiking I had in mind dissolved like a cube of sugar in hot water.

Consequently, I failed to go to San Francisco, and instead of sitting comfortably in the press box at Kitar Stadium, I was sitting uncomfortably at home, shelling out in a pre-Halloween display which still leaves me cringing.

My Favorite Wife, you see, made six bets with me over the weekend—one hockey, five football—and picked six for six, batted 1,000 and collected for a total of one dollar and fifty cents.

If I had not failed to go to San Francisco, due to the World Crisis, I would not have been in a position to be commed into contributing MFW's pin money for the week.

Darn that World Crisis. Almost enough to make a man vote Republican.

National Gallery Buys Painting By City Woman

Margaret Peterson of Victoria has had one of her paintings purchased by the National Gallery, of Canada in Ottawa, it was learned today.

The painting, called "The Vision of Tzouhalem," was included in the one-woman show which Miss Peterson was accorded at Greater Victoria Art Gallery in July.

A former art teacher of the University of California, Miss Peterson—who is married to Howard O'Hagan, the writer—lives at 217 St. Andrews Street in the old Emily Carr studio workshop.

Local curator Colin Graham recently described Miss Peterson as "one of the most underrated artists in Canada" and predicted that her greatness in delineating the symbols and moods of tribal impressions would bring her international stature and acclaim.

Among other Victorians to have works bought by the national gallery are the late Emily Carr, Fenwick Lansdowne and Jack Shadbolt.

Study Urged On Proposals For Square

Acting Mayor Arthur Dowell today proposed a full-scale review of the conflicting Bastion Square proposals.

He said all three plans for use of the vacant Courthouse building were worthy of consideration.

City Hall should make a thorough-going study of the various plans to decide which one it would support as going the furthest in realizing the full potential.

The three proposals are: Relocate the Maritime Museum in the Courthouse; Turn the building over to an arts centre which would establish schools of painting, music, drama and possibly ballet.

Set up a crafts centre in the building.

"There is no question that Bastion Square has a great potential and it should be realized," said Ald. Dowell.

"All the projects mentioned so far are worthy of consideration, but I think we should discuss them with a view to determining which one will provide the city with the best ultimate use of the Courthouse."

CARRY WEIGHT

Although the provincial government, which owns the building, will make the choice of use, city council's recommendation is expected to carry considerable influence.

Council also is in a position to set the whole tone of a rehabilitated square in the area by removing the parking lot and creating a small park.

Aldermen last spring voted to back the Maritime Museum's request that it be given the building, but since then alternative proposals were made.

City business man artist Brian Travers-Smith sent Premier Bennett and City Hall a letter urging establishment of a fine arts centre in the building.

SECOND STRATFORD

He said schools of art, music, drama and ballet would fit in well with the accommodation and give Victoria the chance for becoming a second Stratford.

The dedication of the Courthouse as a non-profit fine arts centre would bring students and teachers from all over the continent," he wrote.

LATEST NAVY CRAFT is this plastic tender which looks as if it has three bows. Actually the two outside are only flares. Four of these craft arrived today at Esquimalt to replace the traditional wooden boats. The 13-foot Boston whaler was designed and built by a commercial boat builder and was adopted by the RCN after extensive tests.

Balmy 60s Break Weather Records

Victoria broke all records today and Sunday with the highest known temperatures for Oct. 28 and 29.

It was 60.8 at noon today—and moving higher. The previous record was 59.9 on Oct. 29, 1914.

Early Sunday afternoon, the temperature rose to 63.2 against a previous record of 61.8 for Oct. 28, 1914.

Weatherman Bill Mackie forecasts continuing warm weather today and Tuesday apart from some fog patches in the morning.

Nanaimo had its highest recorded temperature for Oct. 28 Sunday when the thermometer rose to 63.

Most of Vancouver Island is sharing this idyllic October weather.

The other car left the scene of the accident before its correct licence number could be taken.

Police were told it stopped on Tyee north of the intersection and then drove off.

Driver of the car in which the injured woman was riding was Peter Veerkamp, also of 439 Admirals.

Police suspect robbery was the motive for the attack.

A psychiatric aid at the home, Peter H. Dootson, has been charged with attempted murder.

Q. How do they get the name 'Candestick Park'?

A. Candestick Park, the home of the San Francisco Giants baseball club, is located on Candestick Point, after which it is named. This point extends out into San Francisco Bay.

Q. Where could I get samples of different types of lava rock? K.P.

A. A mineralogical branch of the department of mines reports there are good exposures of all types at the junctions of Glen Lake and Metchosin Roads. Pillow lava can be found along Veitch Creek, near Glen Lake.

Woman Injured In Hit-and-Run

Mrs. Cory Veerkamp, 439 Admirals, a passenger in a car involved in an accident Sunday noon at Bay and Tyee, was taken to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

She received treatment for a head laceration and shock and was released.

Is There a Lonely Piano Anywhere Around-About?

By Elizabeth Forbes

I'm looking for a piano! An instrument that at this moment may be covered up and standing in a corner in someone's basement. Or, one that is in a living room, closed and silent, without touch of understanding fingers.

It doesn't have to be a "grand" piano, in name or in look. All I ask is that it is in reasonably good condition and that it is sturdy and true toned. This piano is for the Sevenoaks Children's Home on Blenkinsop Road, where young lives are being mended and moulded into health.

Now that the darker days of fall and winter are here, there is need for such an instrument for singing and for musical games of an evening. It is also wanted in order to allow three young people, two little girls and a boy, to realize their dreams of "learning to play tunes."

Sevenoaks is a treatment centre for emotionally disturbed boys and girls between the ages of seven and 12 years. It's a Family and Children's Service project and right now, there are 16 children in the two big houses on the property.

Some are from broken homes. Others were placed there by their parents who have been unable to understand the needs of these youngsters or to help them overcome their handicaps.

Referred to the centre through schools or the public health service, each child has a story of trouble and sadness. One was on the verge of being expelled from a Grade 2 class because of inability to settle at a desk or to sit still for even five minutes at a time; another could find nothing to satisfy the disturbance within other than to set fires in rubbish heaps and in waste-paper baskets.

It's Needed As Healing Therapy

Length of stay is usually about two years. But, in most instances, it is only a matter of days in the homelike surroundings and steady atmosphere of Sevenoaks, and in the understanding care of men and women trained as child care workers, before behaviors change and the long road back to health is commenced.

There is a classroom for the most disturbed youngsters, right in the home, but the majority attend public schools. There is free time after school for play periods. But evenings are spent in organized "fun" that includes games, arts and crafts, woodwork and other things.

This program is designed as healing therapy, individually and in groups.

Here's where that piano comes in:

Music is "wonderful" therapy a staff member says, "even if it is produced by little fingers that do not quite co-ordinate on the keys."

Engagement has been announced of Rose Marie, daughter of Mr. S. Crossman and the late Mrs. Crossman, to Mr. Douglas Lyle Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Davis, 2870 Scott Street. The wedding will take place on November 10 in Central Baptist Church at 7:30 p.m. Rev. R. Holmes will officiate. (Photo by Canadian Studios.)

Saanich RCAF Man Married In Two French Ceremonies

A wedding of interest to Victorians took place recently at Marville, Meuse, in France, when LAC William James Scott, RCAF, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Raines, 1600 Keating Cross Road, Saanich, exchanged vows with Beatrice Pamela Wright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Wright of Belgium and England.

Chaplain G. W. Yates, RCAF, officiated at the ceremony in the Royal Canadian Air Force Protestant chapel of 1 (F) Wing, which was preceded by a French civil ceremony in L'Office De Mairie, Marville.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a short white brocade sheath with net overskirt. A long veil misted from a dainty pillbox hat. She carried a bouquet of red and white roses and sweetpeas.

Bridesmaid, Miss Gloria Matthews, chose a blue chiffon dress and a white rose and net headpiece. Yellow carnations were in her bouquet.

Co-Hostesses

Mrs. M. Wiggs, Mrs. J. O'Keefe and Mrs. O. Wiggs were co-hostesses at a shower in the latter's home in honor of bride-elect, Miss Darlene Wiggs. Corsages were presented to the guest of honor and her mother, Mrs. Lillian Walker. Gifts were in a decorated basket. Also invited were Miss Cheryl Knight, who will be bridesmaid for her cousin; Mrs. R. Davies, Mrs. B. Wiggs, Mrs. E. Bugslag, Mrs. E. McCulloch, Mrs. J. Acres, Mrs. V. Acres, Mrs. M. Knight, Mrs. D. Acres, Mrs. A. Parker, Mrs. M. Inkpen, Mrs. M. Lawson, Mrs. M. Kelly and Mrs. F. Ellis.

Mayor in London

Mayor R. B. Wilson and Mrs. Wilson were recent visitors at British Columbia House in London, England, and signed the register there. Names of other Victorians added to the register in the past week include Mrs. A. W. Hammond, Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Austin, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Puddicombe, Mr. and Mrs. J. Burt and daughter Cheryl, Mr. John W. Melkie, Mrs. J. F. George, Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lanry. Also visiting British Columbia House were Mrs. Alan M. Maclean and Miss Georgia Maclean, of Campbell River.

Diamond Wedding

Mr. and Mrs. W. C. George of Burton Avenue celebrated their diamond wedding anniversary recently by holding a family dinner in the Dominion Hotel Terra Cotta Room. With them was their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard G. George of Seattle; a son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. E. (Ella) Tidbury and grandson, Mr. David Tidbury, who returned earlier this month after serving three years with the Royal Canadian Air Force in Zweibrucken, Germany. An "at home" followed in the Tidbury's home on Car-rick Street, Mr. and Mrs. George were married at St. Michael's Church in Sitting-bourne, Kent, Eng., on Octo-ber 18, 1902, and came to Vic-toria in 1911. Mr. George was on the city staff for 32 years. The couple received congratula-tions from HM Queen Eliza-beth II, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, Lieutenant-Gov-ernor George R. Pearkes, Prem-ier W. A. C. Bennett, Mayor R. B. Wilson and many others.

Honored at Shower

Miss J. G. Nordal and daughter Victoria, entertained at a shower in their Beach Drive home in honor of bride-elect Miss Linda Caddell. White chrysanthemum corsages were presented to the bride-to-be, her mother, Mrs. J. Caddell and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. W. Sutcliffe. Gifts were in a pink and white decorated umbrella. Yellow daisies and silver candelabra provided de-cor on refreshment table. In- vited guests included Mrs. E. Howard, Mrs. N. Cockburn, Mrs. R. Marquis, Mrs. N. Wil-son, Mrs. J. Logie and the Misses Diane Logie, Donna Logie, Robyn Bryson, Wendy Caddell, Judy Towers, Janice Laidlaw, Elva Bryant, Joan Kelway, Yvonne Smethurst, Valerie Smethurst and Judy Lewis.

Women Electors To Meet Again

Second meeting of the newly-formed Association of Women Electors of Greater Victoria, will be held in the War Amputations Hall, 1610 1610 Oak Bay Avenue, on Tues-day at 8 p.m. There will be election of officers and discus-sion of a program. The associa-tion was formed primarily to arouse among women an active interest in municipal government; to encourage citi-zens to realize their responsibil-ities as voters; to educate and inform citizens concerning civic affairs; to be strictly non-partisan, non-sectarian and non-money making. Any woman in the Greater Victoria area, interested in such a group may attend.

Heirloom Prayer Book Carried

A prayer book, bound in mother-of-pearl, a gift from the groom's grandmother who had carried it on her wedding day, was carried by Valerie Louise East when she ex-changed vows with Thomas Duncan Gurton in Our Lady of Grace Church at Ganges, Salt Spring Island.

Large baskets of chrys-anthemums decorated the church and ribbons marked the guest pews. Fr. Philip Hanley offici-ated at the ceremony. Organ-ist was Miss Heather Ander-son. Uncle of the bride, Ellis S. Johnson of Port Alberni sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the principals are Mr. and Mrs. M. B. East, St. Mary's Lake, Salt Spring Is-land and Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Gurton of Sidney, B.C.

VELVET GOWN

The bride's classic floor-length gown of white velvet was fashioned with a straight front panel and soft wide pleats at the back extended to a train. Three rosettes of white velvet added interest at the back waistline. Bodice featured bateau neckline and lily-point sleeves. A white velvet chaplet held a shoulder-length embroidered veil that dipped to the waistline at the back. She wore a gold pendant cross, gift of the groom. Pink roses were in the cascade bou-quet.

Bridesmaids, the Misses Ver-lyn and Karen East, sisters of the bride, wore identical bal-lerina-length gowns of ruby velvet with matching pillbox hats and shoes. They carried bouquets of cream and ruby-toned chrysanthemums and maple leaves.

Kenneth Thorne was best man. Ushers were Robert East,

brother of the bride, and Ron-ald Trickett.

A reception was held follow-ing the wedding in the Legion Hall.

A three-tier wedding cake, posed on white tulle dotted with pink rosebuds and flank-ed by white candles in silver candelabra, centred the bride's table. A dainty handmade lace basket, filled with white heather, topped the cake.

Leaving for the interior of British Columbia on honey-moon, the bride donned a dressmaker suit of royal blue, toning floral patterned blouse and black accessories.

On return the newlyweds will make their home at Sid-ney, B.C.

Aussie Victory Almost Sure

PERTH (Reuters)—An Australian combined club, on its way to almost certain victory, gave the touring Marylebone Cricket Club of England a cricketing lesson during their match today.

Superior batting, bowling and fielding have left the Australians needing only 61 more runs to win, with all their second innings wickets intact. Scores after three days are: MCC, 157 and 270; combined, 317 and 50 for no wicket. Final play is Tuesday.

Ship Hits Dock in Fog

VANCOUVER (CP)—Fog that often hugs Vancouver harbor in autumn brought a Norwegian freighter and a grain dock together in a jarring collision today. No one was hurt.

The 10,000-ton Granville hit 25 feet into the dock, severely damaging its foundations and knocking away the steel legs from a 90-foot overhead grain-loading gallery, causing $300,000 damage.

Arabs Demand S.A. Expulsion

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—Saudi Arabia today demanded expulsion of South Africa from the United Nations because it has refused to end its racial separation policy.

Ahmed Shukairy, Saudi Arabian minister of state and delegation chief, specifically asked the United States to join in the expulsion action.

India Asks
U.S. for Arms

CP from AP-Reuters

NEW DELHI—Prime Minister Nehru asked the United States for arms aid today in India's struggle with Communist China in which the total of Indian dead and missing is officially set at 2,000 to 2,500 so far.

An Indian government spokesman said the Chinese are believed to have suffered much heavier casualties in driving into northeastern and northwestern India.

The spokesman reported the loss of Demechok in southern Ladakh where the Chinese had attacked last Saturday.

Nehru asked U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith for the weapons. A U.S. embassy spokesman said Galbraith indicated they are coming.

Despite setbacks, India definitely refused to accept offers of mediation of the undeclared war with China.

An external affairs ministry spokesman said "no self-respecting country, and certainly not India with her love of freedom, can submit to Chinese aggression whatever may be the consequences nor can India allow China's occupation of Indian territory to be used as a bargaining counter for dictating to India a settlement of differences regarding the boundary on China."

The spokesman reiterated that the Chinese must withdraw "at least to where they were prior to Sept. 8 when the intrusion into northeast began."

Meanwhile, Indian Army

Chief-of-Staff Gen. P. N. Thapar announced today that invading Communist Chinese forces are "being held on all fronts." The announcement was contained in a special order of the day.

At military spokesman said there was only a sporadic exchange of fire in the northeast but Demechok and nearby Jara Pas were abandoned in Ladakh.

RECEIVE BRITISH ARMS

The appeal to the United States for weapons followed receipt here of two plane loads of British arms and ammunition. Nehru sought help as a major battle loomed for a vital 2½-mile Himalayan pass on the route to India's densely populated Assam Plains.

The Indian army was rushing reinforcements to the Seapass to try to stem the advance of at least one 10,000-man Communist Chinese division striking forward from the key northeast border town of Towang which fell last week.

U.S. infantry weapons for the Indian defenders in the Himalayas may begin arriving by air by the end of this week, it was understood.

The terms on which the weapons will be supplied were left open, a U.S. embassy spokesman said. In the past, India has insisted on paying for weapons but now there is no cash and a desperate need for arms.

A small shipment of British weapons already has arrived and France and Canada also

Kennedy
Names
Cuba 'Team'

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy set up a special three-man committee today to handle negotiations looking toward an end to the Cuban crisis following Soviet Premier Khrushchev's agreement to pull missile bases out of Cuba.

Kennedy designated as chairman of the group John J. McCloy, whom he previously had appointed special assistant to United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson during the period of the Cuban emergency.

The other members are State Undersecretary George W. Ball and Deputy Defence Secretary Roswell L. Gilpatric.

Pierre Salinger, White House press secretary, described the group as "a co-ordinating committee to give full time and attention to the matters involved in the conclusion of the Cuban crisis."

Salinger said the group would report directly to the president but act under the supervision of State Secretary Rusk, Defence Secretary McNamara, and Stevenson.

The press secretary said the group would be concerned with "implementing the letters of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev."

SENT EMISSARY

Khrushchev has dispatched Deputy Foreign Minister Vassily Kuznetsov to the United Nations in New York to work with Acting Secretary-General U Thant in dealing with the many details involved in a settlement.

Salinger said he had no information as to whether McCloy, Ball and Gilpatric would accompany U Thant to Havana Tuesday to meet with Cuban Premier Fidel Castro and devise methods of confirming that the Russians' offensive weapons are removed.

Washington policymakers held hope that a breakthrough has

Air Cameras
Stand Watch

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. reconnaissance planes focused their cameras on Cuba today in search of evidence that the Russians are starting to dismantle their missile bases there.

The U.S. blockade fleet remained on guard in the Atlantic. But no Russian ships were reported within two or three days steaming time of the U.S. "quarantine" line thrown up nearly a week ago.

Informed officials said they don't expect to see any substantial reduction in land, sea and air preparations at least until the United States is convinced the missile threat from Cuba is removed.

Liberation Army
Blamed for Blast

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—Havana Radio said today the dynamiting of four oil company power stations in Venezuela Sunday was carried out by an organization called the Army of Venezuelan Liberation.

The broadcast described the sabotage as the "first reply of the Army of Venezuelan Liberation to the military mobilization decreed by the puppet Rómulo Betancourt" and said it was a "fearless action."

'DEEPLY DISTURBED'

Canada Moves
To Aid India

OTTAWA (UPI)—Canada is taking "immediate steps" to provide India with military equipment for its frontier war against Communist China, Prime Minister John Diefenbaker announced today.

He told the House of Commons the military aid would include Caribou transport aircraft, and further details would be released within 48 hours.

The prime minister said the assistance was provided in response to a request by the Indian government last week.

Diefenbaker said Canada was "deeply disturbed" over the Chinese military action and would help India "to the fullest in acquiring those items she needs to equip herself at this hour."

Opposition leader Lester B. Pearson added full support to the government in its efforts.

Search Continues

OTTAWA (CP)—A warrant for the arrest of Lieut. Oliver J. Grenon, who disappeared from the Canadian destroyer Kootenay six months ago, has been delivered to military and civilian authorities throughout Europe, a naval headquarters spokesman said today.

'NO DEALS'

U.S. Won't
Quit Base

WASHINGTON (AP)—A state department spokesman, rebutting a Cuban demand for U.S. withdrawal from Guantanamo, said today that United States treaty rights to the big naval base are clear, and "our position there remains unchanged."

Privately, officials said there are "no deals" involved in any way in the U.S.-Soviet agreement for withdrawal of Russian nuclear missiles from Soviet bases in Cuba.

The Guantanamo issue was raised by Premier Fidel Castro Sunday when he made a series of demands on the U.S., beginning with withdrawal from the big naval base.

They were:

1. Lifting the U.S. economic boycott of Cuba.
2. An end to all "subversive activities, organization of mercenary invasions and infiltration of spies and saboteurs" from U.S. territory.
3. Ending of "pirate attacks" from U.S. and Puerto Rican bases.
4. No more violations of Cuban waters and air space by U.S. planes and ships.
5. Withdrawal from the Guantanamo base.

Castro said Kennedy's "guarantees against an aggression on Cuba... will not exist unless, in addition to the elimination of the naval blockade, (these) measures are adopted."

By a treaty signed early this century, the United States is entitled to stay in Guantanamo as long as it desires on payment of a yearly rental fee of $2,000. The base has been operated by the U.S. navy since it was captured during the Spanish-American War.

Venezuela
Oil Fields
Sabotaged

CARACAS (AP)—The Maracaibo oil fields were made a military zone today as hundreds of American and Venezuelan technicians worked to repair damage caused by saboteurs which knocked out a sixth of Venezuela's oil production.

The interior ministry said two captured saboteurs were Venezuelan Communists apparently acting on orders from Cuba, U.S. diplomats spread word among Latin American governments to be wary of an expected continent-wide sabotage campaign by followers of Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Some authoritative sources in Washington said Cuban Premier Fidel Castro gave the signal for general terrorist action in Latin America with the American-operated oil fields in Venezuela a prime target.

Saboteurs dynamited four power stations of the Creole Petroleum Corporation Sunday at Lake Maracaibo, which holds beneath its waters one of the world's richest oil stores.

A few hours earlier President Romulo Betancourt ordered mobilization of the armed forces to counter what he called the threat to Venezuela of "the reservoir of Soviet nuclear rockets in Cuba."

Too Close'
— John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Reaction here to the thaw in the Cuban crisis struck the same note exhibited in other world capitals: relief mingled with caution from Prime Minister Diefenbaker on down.

"Mankind will breathe more hopefully," he said in a statement Sunday. "The introduction of missiles into the Western Hemisphere has brought the world too close to disaster for anyone to indulge either self-congratulations or complacency at this time."

"Keep our relief, as we should keep our fears, in perspective," said Liberal Leader Pearson.

Vistas for new opportunities for negotiation spring from this first step in the right direction," said House Leader H. W. Herdridge of the New Democratic Party.

Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson was at his home in Red Deer, Alta.

Earlier in the day, Mr. Diefenbaker confessed to 200 persons at a church cornerstone-laying ceremony that he had some difficulty keeping abreast of the Cuban developments.

A Diefenbaker statement later said there "an early prospect that the threat to the Western Hemisphere from long-range Soviet missiles in Cuba will be removed."

"This had been brought about by 'high degree of unity, understanding and co-operation among the Western Allies.' In this the Canadian government has played its full part."

Mr. Diefenbaker said the UN deserves special praise for its labors.

A patrolman donned a bullet-proof suit to rush the grenade-wielder and disarm him.

The man repeatedly threatened to pull the pin of the grenade and throw it. But inspection later showed it to be harmless.

The man, tentatively identified as Jerry Hartman, 21, a Negro, was hit by five bullets.

He was treated at hospital and removed to Bellevue Hospital's psychiatric ward. His condition was fair.

K Pledge
On Bases Accepted

By JOSEPH MacSWEENEY

UNITED NATIONS (CP) Acting Secretary-General U Thant, the man in the middle in the Cuban crisis, today prepared for a peace-keeping mission to Havana with the apparent blessings of Moscow and Washington.

Thant Sunday accepted an invitation from Premier Fidel Castro to visit Cuba after Soviet Premier Khrushchev promised President Kennedy of the United States he would remove Russian bases from the Caribbean island under United Nations verification.

A UN spokesman said Thant will leave Tuesday.

Khrushchev made his promise on the basis of a Kennedy offer of a guarantee against an invasion of Cuba and an end to the United States arms blockade against Cuba if the Soviet Union pulled back its offensive weapons.

The Khrushchev-Kennedy exchange of letters resulted in a distinct—if still uneasy—lessening of tensions at UN headquarters where chilling talk of the monocular war kept diplomats jittery most of last week.

But diplomats stressed the situation still is delicate and that words in big-power diplomacy are not always what they seem, particularly when security and prestige are deeply involved.

GREEN ARRIVES

"It's been an exceedingly serious situation and can't be worked out in an hour or two," was the way it was put by External Affairs Minister Howard Green of Canada, who arrived Sunday night from Ottawa for a two-day stay at the UN.

"There is no way we can tell for sure," he added. "But if the Soviet proposal is carried out, if they start work on removing the Cuban bases, and start taking their missiles back to Russia, there seems to be a reasonable chance of getting a solution."

"The letters that have been exchanged indicate there is a fair chance."

TRIES TO ALLAY FEARS

Castro's initial reaction last week to the idea of UN inspectors being sent to Cuba was violently in the negative and his letter to Thant Saturday—extending the invitation for a visit—stressed the sanctity of Cuba's sovereignty.

Seeking to allay Castro's fears on the sovereignty issue, Thant said in his reply Sunday:

"It would be my hope that as

ROUND-A-BOUT

Above-the-knee skirts are being hotly debated in the readers' letters column of The London Daily Sketch.

"I think they're cute," said a male observer, "but I wouldn't want my wife to know I'd said that."

"I think they're terrible," said Mrs. Ronald Holium, 1179 Hollis. "I believe all extremes are bad. I didn't like the long skirt that came in with the New Look about 12 years ago, and I don't like skirts above the knee."

"Clothes should be in proportion to the person and most women look better in a skirt one inch below the knee."

Said 19-year-old Dolly Ferguson, 2961 Quadra: "I think short skirts suit most young women, but they don't look well on older people. In any case, I like the fashions—change is good for all of us."

Blaming the government is a favorite sport with most members of the public. But a Victoria woman went the limit the other day when she blamed Premier Bennett's government for "all the tough characters we are getting on the Island nowadays."

Former Times reporter Mike Rose writes from London that he has been spending the first four months over there "looking up friends and relatives" and adds:

"Dick Ellis and his tribe (the rugby team) arrived in an aura of enthusiasm, which was soon dissipated by the Western Counties' team under Richard Sharp. The experience should be good for our boys."

Few people at the UBC congregation which installed new president John B. Macdonald last Wednesday appreciated the strain under which Chancellor Phyllis Ross was functioning.

Her husband, the Hon. Frank Ross, was operated on at 11 a.m. the same day, but Mrs. Ross carried on with great grace and style. Her husband's condition in general hospital is reported as satisfactory.

Another ex-Times reporter, Peter London, is now undergoing treatment in the Lions Gate Hospital, North Vancouver. In a nearby bed is James John McKim, who taught for many years at Victoria High School before his retirement. Pete says Mr. McKim would welcome letters or postcards from the many who studied under him. He suffered a stroke while visiting North Vancouver about two months ago.

Victorians lined up outside the Dominion Hotel banquet room Sunday night to eat for the United Appeal.

Receipts totalling $341.38 from dinners served to 151 guests were turned over to the fund drive. Hotel manager Norman Loomer said the company will make up the difference to present a $500 cheque to United Appeal.

The project was so successful, Mr. Loomer said, "we will be all geared up in the future to lend our services for needy causes."

Convention manager Charlie Moore, just returned from California, where he drummed up business for the Empress Hotel, has good news for Victoria's tourist industry.

While not yet disclosing the number of conventions expected to be held here next year, he indicated there would be many.

What's more, he said prospects for 1964-65 were equally bright.

Mr. Moore is a bit of a magician when it comes to convention business. In past years he has done more than any individual to induce out-of-town organizations to hold their annual meetings in Victoria.

Seven dollars in pennies wrapped in bridge score cards were delivered anonymously to Victoria's United Appeal fund this weekend.

"We are grateful for all contributions in whatever form they reach us," a UA spokesman said.

Victoria's Tronice Alley could be made much more Old World than it is, says Robert Ludwig, visiting public relations man from Vancouver.

"I would have seats for the old people, open-air coffee tables outside the restaurants and a regular series of weekly art exhibits," he said.

Police Check Out Wanted Man Tips

Hectic activity by RCMP followed circulation during the weekend of a drawing and description of a man wanted in connection with the Nanaimo lovers' lane slaying.

Dozens of citizens telephoned RCMP detachments throughout British Columbia to point out someone they thought is the wanted man.

All the reports are being investigated. But so far they have not turned up "anything concrete," according to a spokesman for the RCMP.

The man being sought could either be the killer or a prime witness in the shooting of Diane Phipps and Leslie Dixon. Dixon's body was found in his car on a Nanaimo lovers' lane, and the body of his girl friend was discovered six miles away.

The bodies of the 19-year-old sweethearts were found Oct. 17. The man being hunted is known to have been in the area at the time of the shooting.

He is between 20 and 30 years old, about six feet tall and has light brown hair. When last seen he wore a light tan windbreaker and matching trousers and was driving a late model black car.

DISABLED PENSIONS EXTENSION

Back-Bench Campaign Pays

OTTAWA (CP) — Quiet missionary work by a government back-bencher has brought a promise that the next federal-provincial welfare conference will take up possible extensions of disabled pensions to persons who don't qualify now.

The unqualified disabled have been a pet project of Heber Smith, 44-year-old Barrie, Ont. lawyer and Progressive Conservative MP for Simcoe North. He argues there are a great many persons receiving unemployment assistance — perhaps 50,000 to 100,000 — who are, in fact, unemployable because of disabilities not covered by regulations defining those who qualify for disability pensions.

He said today in an interview that Health Minister Monteith has promised the question will be taken up at the next federal-provincial welfare conference, since this is a field in which both levels of government co-operate.

Meanwhile, Mr. Smith has placed a private member's motion before the Commons, calling on the federal government to enlarge its definition of a disabled person "to take into consideration such factors as the physical condition, the mental condition and the age of the applicant and other factors which create a condition of permanent unemployability."

Mr. Smith said that at a guess, between 50,000 and 100,000 persons now regarded as unemployed are really unemployable. Some may be accident-prone, others may have physical disabilities not covered by regulations defining those who qualify for disability pensions.

been scored in the U.S.-Soviet confrontation that bordered on potential nuclear conflict.

Khrushchev's pledge was hailed in Western capitals as a stunning victory for the United States.

The only price Khrushchev asked was a guarantee, which Kennedy gave, that the United States would not invade Cuba.

The state department announced that while the "quarantine" against offensive weapons shipments to Cuba continues, it expects no interceptions by the U.S. blockaders.

Washington authorities said they did not know at the moment whether the building of Soviet missile sites in Cuba—reported proceeding at a rapid pace Saturday—had stopped.

Khrushchev agreed to pull out the missile bases in a letter to Kennedy. The Soviet leader said "the interests of peace" guided his decision.

Kennedy issued a statement calling Khrushchev's decision "an important and constructive contribution to peace."

Kennedy said Khrushchev had made possible "a step back from danger."

This historic exchange climaxed a week of nerve-jangling events. The first step was Kennedy's announcement last Monday night that he was ordering a "quarantine" of offensive arms shipments to Cuba. Ships reported to be carrying offensive weapons to Cuba turned around.

Defence Secretary Robert McNamara announced that more than 14,000 air force reservists, mostly in units used to airlift troops for combat, would be called to active duty.

McNamara's announcement Saturday night followed a Pentagon report that an unnamed U.S. reconnaissance plane was missing as a result of Cuban anti-aircraft fire.

The tension-filled week was climaxed with Khrushchev's latest letter, meeting the basic U.S. demand for suggesting UN supervision. The Soviet leader also proposed discussions on arms reductions, including armaments of the rival North Atlantic Treaty Organization and the Communist Warsaw pact group, and talks on easing other cold war tensions.

SMASHING election victory was chalked up by Mayor Jean Drapeau in the most lop-sided win in Montreal history.

He was as popular in the English-speaking areas as in the French-speaking sectors in piling up 130,556 votes to 13,629 for Senator Sarto Fournier, his closest opponent.

City Hall, Shops Plaza Combined

KAMLOOPS (CP) — Mayor Cyril Day announced last week that the city plans to make a new city hall and public safety building part of a $4,000,000 shopping plaza proposed for the downtown area.

He said the combined civic project is possible because of tax revenue from the plaza, which will allow the city to retire the debt on a major loan without recourse to additional taxes.

The plaza, to include a department store, specialty shops and possibly a medical clinic, would be built on city-owned land now occupied by a police station and welfare buildings.

The civic building would house city offices as well as a police station, court room and jail.

De Gaulle Wins 'Prestige Test'

PARIS (Reuters) — Charles de Gaulle remained France's president today after voters approved his presidential referendum with a three-to-two majority and gave the imperturbable leader a vote-of-confidence in the process.

The national referendum Sunday brought 12,800,000 yes votes and 7,900,000 no votes—a 61.76 per cent affirmative ballot.

However, almost a quarter of the eligible voters stayed away from the polls.

By de Gaulle's own calculations, a figure above 60 per cent meant a "success," 65 per cent a "triumph." He had threatened to retire if the majority had been "mediocre or problematical."

The referendum was officially to give the voters a chance to decide on de Gaulle's proposal that future presidents be elected by popular vote, instead of by an electoral college.

But faced with the opposition of almost every political party in France — partly because the referendum meant changing the constitution without the approval of the National Assembly — de Gaulle also made the vote a test of his prestige with the French people.

With the referendum over, a new political campaign began for the election next month of a new National Assembly.

De Gaulle dissolved the assembly earlier this month when it brought down Premier Georges Pompidou's government in a vote of confidence over the referendum proposal.

The fight is expected to be bitter since many politicians urged a no vote in the referendum and must face constituencies which voted solidly for de Gaulle.

The approval votes totalled 45.83 per cent of the electorate, those against 28.38 per cent.

NEW ROAD DUE FOR INDIANS AFTER SIX DIE

B.C. will build a road to an isolated Indian village where six people were drowned on a treacherous water crossing earlier this year.

A highways department official said construction will start as soon as possible on a link between the Indian village of Kitimat and the city of Kitimat.

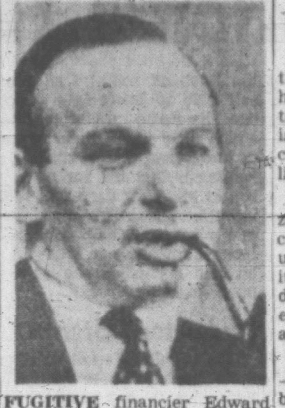

Residents of the village have demanded the road since the boating accident last April.

At present only way to get from the village to the city is across three miles of dangerous Douglas Channel.

The 1.9 mile road will be started as soon as negotiations are completed with the Aluminum Company of Canada for right of way.

Provincial and federal governments will share the costs 50-50.

PROOF IN B.C. STATISTICS

FUGITIVE financier Edward M. Gilbert, 38, returned voluntarily from his Brazilian hide-away today and pleaded innocent to federal charges of misappropriating $2,500,000 from the E. L. Bruce Hardware Flooring Company, of which he was president.

Victoria's Weather Still Best

Proof of the Victoria conviction that this city enjoys highly superior weather is contained in a breakdown of British Columbia's 1961 climate compiled by meteorologist William H. Mackie.

Last year, the sage of Gonzales Hill notes in the hottest, coldest, wettest, sunniest volume on record, we never had it warmer than a downtown 97 degrees scored in July, or cooler than a December dip to 27 above Fahrenheit.

Victoria's mean temperature—an unfortunate term for our balmy average—was 51 degrees on Gonzales and 51 in town, a figure matched only by Merry Island upcoast and Lytton on the mainland.

We did have a spot more rain than usual, 28.91 inches at Gonzales against a 48-year average of 27.35, but balanced it with a below-normal 2.9 inches of snow, against the 11.8-inch average.

Those figures, though, are a mere drop in the bucket when compared with the torrential 195.96 inches of rain registered at Seymour Falls in North Vancouver, and the 414.6-inch snowfall that winter brought to Allison Pass at the Hope-Princeton Highway summit.

As to extremes of heat and cold, Victoria wasn't broiled by the 104 degrees run up by Lytton, Sugar Lake and Duncan—a town that once "sizzled in a fantastic 106. Nor did we risk frostbite with the brittle 42 below zero which February of 1961 brought to Lower Post.

In only one department, hours of bright sunshine, did the city you follow the gulls to lag a trifle, and even there, our 2,256-hour total was 49 above the 48-year average. A fruit-picker's camp in the Okanagan—Oliver, they call it—claimed 2,323 hours, and trading post named Fort St. John alleges 2,319 hours of sunlight last year.

UNDERWORLD FIGURE SHOT IN MONTREAL

MONTREAL (CP)—Maurice Cloutier, 36, described by detectives as an underworld figure, was fatally shot Sunday night on a downtown sidewalk.

Cloutier was struck by two bullets, police believe, were fired from a speeding car. Detectives said Cloutier had a criminal record going back to 1950.
